High Finance, Two Kinds. Clara Bow Has Pluck. Russia Worries Them. Harkness, Good American.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FINANCE IN the newly created world of prohibition crime is almost as complicated as high finance in Wall street.

The police seek John Factor, better known as "Jake the Barber." Factor's lawyers would gladly deliver their client to the United States authorities, that he might be protected from his own friends. They plan to kidnap "the Barber" to make him divide $5,000,000 accumulated in swindling enterprises here and in Europe. Failing such division, they would shoot him.

MR. "LEGS" DIAMOND, who carries in his body eight or 10 slugs recently fired by gangster friends in two attempts to murder him, is particularly anxious to find "Jake the Barber." Mr. Diamond "grubstaked" the "Barber" that he might sell oil stocks to the simple minded persons in Europe.

The Barber made $5,000,000 and failed to divide with his grubstaker. In the world of gang finance, that means death. No wise insurance company would finance "the Barber" now.

THERE IS NO such rough work in Wall street finance. Yesterday's events there recall your childhood rhyme:

"Jack and Jill went up the hill
To feich a pail of water.
Jack fell down and broke his crown,
And Jill came tumbling after."

Yesterday Big Steel was Jack and American Can was Jill. They both "broke 100." Which means that they fell below par.

In a little while, men will rub their eyes, not believing that it really happened. Two years ago, men that "play the market" had for their limit not the sky or the fixed stars, but the distant nebulae. Now they will sacrifice their stocks and later buy them again at top prices. And so it goes.

The late Russell Sage said to this writer in the ancient days:

"Young man, everybody has in his lifetime at least one chance to buy Western Union at 50. When your chance comes, don't miss it."

Western Union has been at 50 at least twice since then, and, with all our depression, $106 a share was bid for Western Union yesterday, and nobody sold any. In October, 1929, it sold at $272.

IT WAS A GOOD DAY for the newly developed crops of amateur "bears." Wheat was weak, cotton sold at the lowest price since the summer of 1915.

It's the old, sad story. When there are bargains nobody has money, or, if he has, he won't spend it. When there are no bargains, everbody wants to buy. What will happen to those improvised bears, later, will surprise them.

BUT MIND, we do not, as yet, advise you to buy any particular stock.

IT TAKES pluck to defy blackmailers and extortionists.

One of the criminals, preying upon her, has been convicted of grand theft, another is prosecuted by the federal authorities.

Unfortunately, the long strain in court, with the unsuccessful attempts at blackmail and the efforts to blacken her character, have injured her health, forcing her, temporarily, to enter a sanitarium for recuperation.

The public, with whom Clara Bow greatly increased her popularity, can show its appreciation of her plucky conduct by flocking more than ever to her pictures, constantly improving.

TWELVE NATIONS in Europe, to say nothing of this one, are worried about Russian industrial, commercial and business competition. The "export markets of the United States are much affected," you are told.

Where we used to sell goods, Russia is underselling us. European nations want to form a trade agreement against Russia and, probably, will succeed no better than they did with their "United States of Europe" that was to tear down barriers among themselves.

The way to compete with Russia is to COMPETE, not merely weep or growl.

If we can't beat Russia at manufacturing and in prices, Russia will beat us in the world's markets. And yelling "bolshevism" won't prevent it.

There is nothing new about the situation, except that high finance hates to admit that lowly bolshevism can beat it at its own game.

Before the war Germany was taking business away from England and other countries, as Russia is taking it away now.

PERHAPS THE nations will get together and decide to fight Russia. If they do, they will lose money.

An expert German said truly and before 1914:

"Going into Russia is like sticking your head into a feather bed. The farther in you go the more you choke."

To conquer France you need only take Paris. To conquer Italy you take Rome. To take London would be to conquer England.

But in Russia if you took Leningrad and Moscow you still would have 200,000 Russian villages to take. Fortunately this country is in the same position. You might conquer the whole of the East and you would still have Texas and California, Illi-

CRASH TRAPS U.S. OFFICER IN RESCUE

Marine Hero Feared Dead In Ruins of French Tower Trying to Save Woman

TOURS, France, May 19.—(AP.)—Brig. Gen. Robert H. Dunlap, United States Marine Corps, was buried under a collapsing wall of the historic tower of Cinq Mars today while he was attempting to rescue a woman pinned under the debris.

Police said there was practically no chance that he would be rescued alive.

The mayor of the township, however, clung tenaciously to the hope that the General might have escaped into a cellar adjoining the ruins.

TRIES TO SAVE WOMAN

Gen. Dunlap is stationed here as a student at the French War College.

Accompanied by his wife he was visiting the tower. As they walked leisurely along the street in front of it the General suddenly noticed the wal was crumbling. Bricks wkere falling upon a woman pedestrian ahead of them.

The General sprang forward to drag her out of the danger zone, and as he reached her side the whole wall collapsed with a great roar burying both of them under a mass of brick and mortar.

THIRD MAY BE BURIED

A third person also was believed to have been buried.

Mrs. Dunlap hurried forward, but she could not dig through the debris. She telephoned Ambassador Edge at Paris immediately.

The ambassador ordered Maj. Robert Walsh, assistant military attache, to Tours. He left by automobile acompanied by Mrs. Corcoran Thom, of Washington, his mother-in-law and Gen. Dunlap's cousin.

TOWN HALL SITE DEAL CALLED ILLEGAL

Attorney Attempts to Show Land Across Street Sold For Third of Nicola Price

Purchase of the F. F. Nicola property at Ruskin and Fifth avenues as a site for Allegheny County's new $6,000,000 town hall was declared illegal today in an amended bill of complaint filed by Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, representing Schenley Farms and Oakland property owners in a suit in equity before Judge James R. Macfarlane in Common Pleas Court.

Attorney Eaton asked permission to amend the bill after testimony of D. F. Shanahan, storage and transfer operator, that he had given Nicola an option on his property at Bigelow boulevard and Ruskin avenue, on February 16, at $6.25 a square foot. This was 13 days after the commissioners had agreed to purchase the Nicola property at a price of $8 a square foot.

Shanahan was called as a witness for cross-examination in the legal action of taxpayers seeking an injunction to restrain the commissioners from carrying out the purchase agreement.

CHARGE PRICE TOO HIGH

Attorney Eaton, who has been contending that the Nicola property will cost the county $500,000 in excess of its actual value said:

"On the basis of the Shanahan deal the county stands to lose $243,000 in the purchase of the site."

It was developed yesterday that Mellon Institute paid but $4 a square foot for property in the vicinity of the Town Hall site while the University of Pittsburgh paid

SALES UNDER LIMITATIONS PROPOSED

Public Safety Committee Ignores Garland Proposal Indorsed by Civic Groups

Passage of legislation permitting the sale of fireworks under city regulation was recommended by City Council's committee on public safety late today.

A proposed ordinance which would prohibit the sale was defeated. This measure was drafted by Councilman Robert Garland and had the indorsement of the Congress of Clubs, the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, the Pittsburgh Chapter, National Council of Jewish Women and others.

ANDERSON VOTES NO

Councilman Charles Anderson joined with Councilman Garland in voting "no" on the measure, which had been indorsed by the Pittsburgh fireworks dealers and the Department of Public Safety. It provides that the sale of fireworks be permitted from June 25 to July 4, inclusive.

Dealers must be licensed. Sale of giant torpedoes, roman candles weighing more than one pound, and other explosives held to be dangerous, would be prohibited.

SUBJECT OF BATTLE

Fireworks legislation has been the subject of a heated fight.

The ordinance in its final form will be sent to Council on Monday.

Clara Bow's Early Childhood Marked By Tragic Events

The life story of Clara Bow, rollicking "It" girl of the screen, is related by Louella Parsons, motion picture editor of Universal Service. This fascinating story is based upon facts supplied by both the film star and Robert Bow, her father. Herewith is given the second installment of this thrilling narrative, which began in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday.

CHAPTER II.

Clara Bow's tragedies have not been a matter of recent years. She was born to trouble. Her mother, before Clara saw the light of day, had buried two children born prematurely. Her health had given way under the strain and she feared to have another baby.

"I know this baby will die just like the others and I could not bear to have another still born baby put into my arms," she told her husband.

In vain, Robert Bow tried to comfort his golden-haired young wife. "I know this little one will live," he said, "and be healthy and a comfort to both of us."

Robert Bow had married pretty Sarah Gordon after he had kept company with her for seven months. "Her brother, Harry, introduced us," Mr. Bow told me, "and I knew the moment I met her that I wanted to marry her. She was always delicate and subjected to severe fainting spells, but I told her mother and father I would take such good care of her that she would grow strong and well."

But each year she grew worse

'Bugs' Gets Big Thrill Watching Army Air Show

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 19.

Saw the greatest sight I ever saw since the cow kicked Aunt Jannie in the bustle.

Over 600 Army airplanes overhead, and all of them buzzing like flies in watermelon time.

Looks like Mr. Brisbane's editorials on aviation have had some effect on the War Department, which intends to show Mr. Brisbane that it is ready for anything if the appropriation is large enough.

DEFIES YOUTH, SAVES CASH

Menaced by a revolver, Miss Margaret Walters, 25, of 1225 Howardd street, manager of a P. H. Butler Company store at 1424 East street, North Side, talked herself out of a holdup early today. Her courage saved the company $100.

The robber, described as a blond boy about 16 years old, fled when a child entered the store.

Miss Walters said she had just opened the store when the youthful robber entered. He asked to buy some cigarets. She replied:

"You're too young to buy cigarets."

Drawing a revolver, Miss Walters said, the boy replied:

"Oh, well, I didn't want cigarets anyhow. Give me the money in the cash register."

Continuing, Miss Walters said:

"I told him there was nothing but change in the drawer, although I knew different. There was $100 there, but I wasn't going to let him get it if I could help it."

Just then the child entered the store and the robber fled.

A few hours later apparently the same youth entered the Butler store at 601 Taylor street, North Side, and escaped with $5 he grabbed from a cash register as he was being chased by the manager, E. W. Weiss.

FLIGHT OF 672 PLANES HALTED

FAIRFIELD, O., May 19.—Unless the weather above Chicago clears this afternoon the movement of the Army Air Corps' 672-plane formation to that city for a demonstration tomorrow will be abandoned for today, Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, commander of the division, announced.

However, the division staff plans to take the formation to the midwest metropolis early tomorrow to give the review at the scheduled time if possible, he added.

War time, leaders pointed out, could bring occasions when the safety of an American seacoast might depend on the swift movement of troops, supplies and air

Dead Father Drove Heiress To Suicide, Suit Charges

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP.)—A few hours before he died of heart disease last Tuesday, Hiram Royal Mallinson, head of the Fifth avenue silk house bearing his name, was served in a $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit, brought by his son-in-law, Eugene V. Bowen, it was revealed today.

Papers in the suit filed in Supreme Court, charged that Mrs. Bowen, who was Lorna Mallinson, committeed suicide when she fell from her father's twelfth floor apartment in the Hotel Marguery, in Park avenue, April 15, 1928. The death had been listed as accidental.

Bowen, former owner of the Green Hat restaurant, named both Mr. and Mrs. Mallinson in his suit, charging that together they broke up his marriage, and placed their daughter in a sanitarium. Her mind deranged by the efforts of her parents to disrupt their union, Bowen charged, she jumped to her death.

Skidding Warship Escapes Hindenburg Christening

KIEL, Germany, May 19.—A mix-up in commands marred the long-awaited launching of Germany's "vest pocket" battle cruiser Deutschland here today.

The 10,000 ton warship, whose heavy armaments and radical principles have made it a bone of contention among the European sea powers, broke away and slid down the ways in the middle of a dedicatory speech by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

President Von Hindenburg made a valiant effort to complete the christening before the ship got out of his reach, but the moving vessel was too quick for him and the bottle of choice champagne selected for the occasion crashed to the ground.

COL. CHURCH ASSAILS PROHIBITION PROPAGANDA

CARNEGIE HEAD PROTESTS TO MITCHELL

Department of Justice's Use Of Franked Mail in New Dry Campaign Attacked

Declaring it is no part of the duty of a public servant to attempt to influence public opinion in support of tyrannical and obnoxious laws, Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, today made public a letter he has written to Attorney General William D. Mitchell, protesting the recent activities of the Department of Justice.

Church challenged the right of the department in "wasting the time of employes and the money of the people, besides congesting the mails, in seeking to influence public opinion to uphold and maintain the prohibition system." He referred to the recent distribution in franked envelopes of printed copies of editorials published in Pittsburgh newspapers 40 years ago, which tended to indicate that speakeasies and police corruption existed before the prohibition amendment was adopted.

Church wrote:

"I challenge the right of the Department of Justice to distribute any material that is designed to create a public opinion in support of a system which President Hoover's Wickersham Commission condemned as the chief breeder of all crime, grafting and racketeering in this country, and which a large majority of our citizens wish corrected by a return of the control of the question to the people in their respective states.

"If, in spite of this protest, the Department of Justice should continue to waste its energies in the futile propaganda of a hideous and ghastly mistake in the policy of human government, I ask you to omit my household from your mailing list."

HALL SITE DEAL CALLED ILLEGAL

NICOLA TAKES STAND

Under the terms of the option agreement, Shanahan is to receive $60,000 for his property, declared to be one of the most valuable in the Oakland district. The option has not been exercised, however, according to testimony.

Nicola followed Shanahan to the stand and admitted he had entered into an agreement with Shanahan. He added that at the time he began negotiating with Shanahan he was offering the county the property at $10 a square foot.

Two expert witnesses — Henry Hornbostel, Pittsburgh architect, and Col. H. J. Twelvetree, manager of the Cleveland Town Hall —were called when the hearing resumed this morning.

SITE HELD INADEQUATE

Hornbostel, who designed the Oakland (Cal.) Town Hall and more recently the municipal auditorium in Cedar Rapids, Ia., said the Oakland location was inadequate. He testified the site would not permit the minimum requirement of 100,000 square feet for exhibition space. Col. Twelvetree was of opinion the site would not permit a greater maximum than 60,000 square feet of exhibition space and the seating capacity would be limited to 9,000. According to the witness, the maximum floor space should be 180,000 square feet.

The site was valued at prices ranging from $4.23 a square foot to $5 by three real estate dealers called by Attorney Eaton. J. F. McClure estimated $595,874 or $4.23 a square foot as the value of the property; John C. R. Kelley, $636,758 or $4.50 a square foot, and Joseph R. Gray, $704,000 or $5 a square foot.

Meanwhile the Negroes were started to Atlanta by guardsmen early today for safe-keeping after a night of mob activity that was suppressed only by use of rifle fire and tear gas bombs.

Earlier in the day members of the mob, in automobiles, attempted to seize four other Negroes arrested in the case while officers were taking them to Athens, Ga. At Athens a crowd congregated around the jail, but soon was dispersed.

'Peer of Mystery' Buried Alive by Preacher

ORANGE, N. J., May 19.—(INS.)—Orange police today were holding the Rev. Madison Russ, 41, Negro pastor of the Friendly Rescue Mission, and a man identifying himself as Sankah Bey, who was being buried alive in the mission churchyard when police rescued him.

Russ had just patted down the last spadeful when police arrived. Asked what he was burying, he replied:

"The peer of African mystery."

Police began to dig. Four feet down they reached the victim, in a crude, coffin-shaped box. He was unconscious, but still breathing.

"The peer" said he was just practicing and had persuaded his friend to bury him. He would have died had he been underground five minutes more than the 20 he remained buried, doctors said.

WAGE CUTS HIT BY DOAK

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP.)—The administration is trying to erect a blockade on the path to lower wages.

Through Secretary of Labor Doak it has notified workers and employers alike that any general efforts to reduce pay would be a violation of the agreement reached between labor and industry in the 1929 conference called by President Hoover.

The Secretary said there had been no revocation of that agreement to maintain wage levels despite the depression. He added that general reductions would be a violation of confidence and would permit employes to demand more money, although they had decided to abide by present pay scales.

Potters Consider New Wage Scale

CLEVELAND, May 19.—(AP.)—Joseph M. Wells, of Newell, W. Va., and other members of the labor committee of the United States Potters' Association, gathered here today for a wage conference with representatives of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters. LEAGUE COURT GETS GERMAN TRADE PACT

Washington Watches Action Expected to Have Bearing On U. S. Adherence Fight

GENEVA, May 19.—(AP.)—The Council of the League of Nations formally adopted today by unanimous vote Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson's proposal to refer the Austro-German customs pact to the League Court at The Hague.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany, caused a sensation at the opening of the meeting by saying, in answer to a statement by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, that if the Court decided the proposed Austro-German customs union was legal it would be insupportable to bring Germany before the Council as a disturber of the peace in Europe.

Pact Action May Swing U. S. Sentiment on Court

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(INS.)—Submission of the Austro-German pact to the League Court for an advisory opinion as to its legality is being watched in Washington with extraordinary interest and attention because the question of American adherence to the League Court may hinge upon the outcome.

The Senate has balked at the idea of permitting the League Court to render advisory opinions in matters affecting the United States without the express consent of this country being given beforehand. The Senate embodied this in its famous fifth reservation to the protocol several years ago.

The powers were unwilling to accept this restriction on the court's authority. Early in the Hoover administration, however, Elihu Root was sent to Europe to consult with the powers and he returned after some months with a substitute for the Senate's reservation, which the Senate thus far has refused to accept.

Injunctions Granted In Mine Disorders

LONDON, Ky., May 19.—(AP.)—Any violence or intimidation of workers which interferes with operation of two mines in Harlan County, where state troops have been sent to quell disorders, will be in violation of permanent injunctions granted by Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran last night.

KLEIN PREDICTS EARLY RISE IN TRADE

Level of Depression Here, U. S. Official Declares; Sees Recovery in Summer

Dr. Julius Klein, economist and assistant secretary of commerce, in Pittsburgh to address the annual meeting of the Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania tonight in the Hotel William Penn, declared today the level of the business depression has been reached, and that business was not on a downward trend.

He said:

"We know business is not on a downward trend. The depression has stopped. I think the bottom of the valley was reached in January, and we are now traveling on the flat. How wide the valley is I cannot say, but it is reasonable to expect that if farmers' crops return a profit, conditions will be stimulated during June or July."

Discussing the installment plan of conducting business, Dr. Klein discredited the theory of economists that the plan would not stand the shock of a depression.

He said:

"Installment selling represents only 10 per cent of retail business. As a system it has been put under a severe test and has stood up. A survey of 500 installment companies has refuted the assumption that there was a calamity in that department of selling."

WOMAN FELLED BY THUG

Beaten by a thug while en route to her home last night, Mrs. Florence McClurg, 39, of 5531 Camelia street, was in St. Francis Hospital today with a severe laceration of the head.

Mrs. McClurg was walking in Stanton avenue, near Morningside avenue, when a Negro approached and struck her on the head with a blackjack, according to police. Dazed by the blow, Mrs. McClurg fell to the ground and her assailant, apparently frightened, fled without stealing her purse.

FOREST YIELDS MAN'S BODY

SKOWHEGAN, Me., May 19.—(INS.)—The great north woods of Maine today had given up a secret, locked within it for more than six months, with the discovery in the St. Cherefield forest of the body of Mitchell B. Kaufman, 37-year-old bachelor and wealthy Massachusetts rubber magnate.

Sheriff Elton L. Markham, of Somerset County, after receiving a report from James Murtha, director of searching guides who found the body, said that Kaufman apparently had died of exhaustion, as there were no bullet wounds or signs of violence about the body. Kaufman had walked nine miles through the dense forest and, overcome by fatigue, laid down and died in his sleep.

Kaufman disappeared November 5, 1930, while on a hunting trip with five companions at a camp on Crocker pond, in Jackman.

STATE MAY VOID VOTE MACHINE CONTRACT

Secretary of Commonwealth To Enforce Time Limit; Lawyer Asks Senate Quiz.

Allegheny County's plan to use voting machines in September's primary election had two developments today:

1.—The state threatened to force the breaking of Allegheny County's vote machine contract unless deliveries are made in time to acquaint voters with methods of operation.

2.—Attorney Hiram D. Hirsh, representative of the Allegheny contractor, contended his company was being harassed by a "voting machine monopoly" and suggested a senatorial investigation.

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish will demand that the Allegheny County Commissioners force forfeiture of the bond and break the contract for voting machines unless deliveries are made in time to teach the people how to operate the machines.

If they refuse he will enlist the aid of the Attorney General.

FAITH IN M'GOVERN

He made these assertions today, after reports reached him that June 8 had been set for the first of the machine deliveries by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore. Beamish said:

"If the deliveries are not made by June 8 in sufficient numbers to guarantee that the people will know how to use them for the fall elections, I will use the full power of my office to force them.

"I intend to ask the County Commissioners of Allegheny County to insist on deliveries at this time. August 18 is set as the date in the contract for full deliveries.

MOVIES NOT ADEQUATE

"Motion pictures of the machines for demonstration to the people is not altogether satisfactory. If the Commissioners do not act, I shall ask the attorney general to break the contract and immediately readvertise for bids so Allegheny County will have the machines."

Senate Probe of Voting Machine Firms Asked

Attorney H. D. Hirsh, counsel for the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, issued a statement today charging that his company is being harassed by "the voting machine monopoly." The Jamestown Voting Machine Company is the only other vote machine manufacturer. Until a year ago when the Poole Company was awarded the contract for machines in Allegheny and several other counties, it had no competition. Hirsh said:

"It would be a welcome relief to have a senatorial investigation of the entire voting machine industry. It has been monopolized since its formation by a monopoly that has spread its tentacles into every avenue of government and politics. As well stated by Gov. Pinchot, 'as soon as one dares to tramp ever so lightly on the toes of monopoly there sets forth a howl and a squeal.' Since the Poole Company has gone into production of voting machines this howl is increasing louder than ever. The Poole Company is in the voting machine business to stay. They will fulfill their contracts here and everywhere else in spite of this constant and determined annoyance.

"Any statement coming now from any source in order to further delay or impede the progress already maintained and established by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company can not be accepted in good faith."

Coolidge Sees World Gain In Unity of Europeans

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 19.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

If Continental Europe can work out some plan for economic unity it will be of much profit to the world. The difficulties are great. The main approach to economic unity has been through political unity. That was what made the United States. The political co-operation exercised through the League of Nations has been helpful but it has been far from abolishing age-old race and national antagonisms.

Mr. Coolidge

The rivalries that exist among different sections of our own country would certainly result in independent antagonistic action if they were not restrained by a strong central government. Perhaps European states can conquer a more impetuous tendency. If it is done, there will be a large enough population with a common interest to furnish better support for mass production.

The present inability of the continental countries to market such production is their pecular weakness. A tariff fails to help them in the way it helps us. A strong and prosperous Europe, so peaceful in response to mutual interests that it can raise the living standards of its people, should be welcome everywhere. Our interests in Europe are so great that, as long as our own standards are protected, the better off she is the better off we shall be.

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY CADETS GIVEN HEARST TROPHY

AWARD MEDALS TO MEMBERS OF TEAM

Head of State's Schools Makes Presentation as Army Officers Look On

By VERN SWARTSFAGER
Staff Correspondent.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 19.—Amid a colorful military scene at evening parade, with the West Virginia University R. O. T. C. at its best—for it was being reviewed by members of the inspection corps of the regular United States Army—William C. Cook, superintendent of free schools for the state of West Virginia, in behalf of William Randolph Hearst, presented to the Mountaineer cadets a beautiful silver plaque, emblematic of their victory in the southern section for senior units of the annual Hearst rifle trophies competition.

Cook handed to the pretty sponsor for the regiment, Mary Williams, the coveted prize which was won in a severe test of marksmanship, the local riflemen having scored 912 out of a possible 1,000 targets.

The cadet team of Capt. Marvin I. Manuel, of Charleston, W. Va.; Vaughn Michael, of Morgantown; Omer Raymond Lyons, of Point Marion, Pa.; Ellis Lea, of Turner, W. Va., and W. C. Sheppard, of Palestine, W. Va., scored well under the coaching of Sergt. David M. Baird. Each of these men received individual medals from Cook, following the presentation of the trophy.

Maj. H. H. Fletcher, in command of West Virginia U.'s R. O. T. C., and a staff of corps area inspection officers, Lieut. Col. E. N. Bowman, Maj. C. A. Bagby and Maj. R. G. Guyer, assisted in the presentation. Dr. J. R. Turner, president of the university, congratulated each of the boys upon their success.

Preparedness Need Stressed By Educator

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 19.—In his address awarding the Hearst Trophy for rifle competition yesterday to the West Virginia R. O. T. C., William C. Cook, superintendent of free schools, asserted:

"It is extremely fitting at this particular time in our political and social adjustment, to emphasize the value of military training. Military training is not only training for a warrior, but it is training for a private citizen.

"Too few adults understand the importance of preparedness. They too often look upon such training as means of provoking war. They forget that government is based upon military agents. The encouragement of military prowess which the William Randolph Hearst trophy tends to stimulate is not awarded as an aggressive measure for war, but as a means of self-defense. It is, in reality, a means of securing peace."

Dr. J. R. Turner, president of the university, congratulated Mr. Hearst for sponsoring the rifle competitions. Dr. Turner said:

THUNDERSTORM BREAKS EARLY HOT SPELL

Lightning Hits Dwelling, Hurls Man From His Bed; More Showers to Cool Air

Showers today were expected to put an end to the high temperature which gripped Pittsburgh yesterday and was followed by a damaging electrical storm during the night.

Although the morning temperature reached 70, a high mark for the forenoon this year, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said it would be cloudy later, and this would prevent a further appreciable rise in the mercury. Yesterday a yearly high of 87 was recorded.

STORM DAMAGE

The electrical storm last night did considerable damage.

After lightning had struck and damaged the home of Walter M. Ivey, Eastmont avenue, Dormont, early today, the barking of three bull terriers in the cellar of the dwelling aroused members of the family, who after an examination, found gas was leaking.

The dogs, Mrs. Ivey explained were irritated by the fumes, and the barking resulted. Dormont firemen were called and the gas was turned off.

While the storm was at its height, lightning struck the building at 234 Birmingham avenue, where the families of B. F. Joyce and A. M. Geyer reside. The force of the crash threw Geyer from his bed, according to his report to firemen.

The lightning struck a corner of the house, tore shingles loose, and burned out fuses and light wires. Kathleen, 5, and Dolores Geyer, 3, and Rita Joyce, 10, were frightened by the noise of the crash, but were quieted by their parents.

LIGHTS OUT

In the downtown section, lightning struck a pole in Ferry street, near Second avenue, putting the light circuit out of order between there and Liberty avenue and Diamond street.

In Crafton lightning affected street lights in various parts of the borough, putting the sections in darkness for the duration of the storm.

Operators at the police broadcasting station, Mt. Washington, said that the lightning did not interfere with the operation of the station, and that the cruisers were able to get all time signals and messages.

BRONSON, Mich., May 19.—(AP.)—Nothing much disturbs Lyle Bower. Burglars entered his home, removed electric and plumbing fixtures and the cook stove, and departed, while Bower slept on, undisturbed.

Pittsburgh Progress Shown By Old Directories

The story of Pittsburgh's growth from a rambling village of 9,000 persons to its metropolitan position today is told in a striking manner by three books being displayed here. The books are the city directories for the years 1815, 1850 and 1930.

When the 1815 directory, which is about the size of a pocket Testament and contains 156 pages, was published, James Madison was President, and only a year before the British had destroyed the White House. Pittsburgh in those days had less than 40 streets.

The contrast between 1815 and today is accentuated by the comprehensive survey R. L. Polk & Co., owners of the display, is making of Pittsburgh in preparation for the 1931 directory. Nearly 200 workers are in the field tabulating besides the customary directory material, the buying preferences and habits of Greater Pittsburgh.

Prior to the publication of the 1850 directory, houses were not numbered. In this edition the publisher apologises for the delay "in consequence of the time consumed in numbering the houses."

Shortly after the 1856 directory, R. L. Polk & Co. undertook the annual count and have published Pittsburgh city directories ever since.

'Doctor of Applesauce' Only Degree for Rogers

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 19.—(AP.)—Will Rogers, of cap and bells, refuses to don cap and gown.

Oklahoma City University was considering making Will a doctor of humanity and letters, just about the last word in honorary degrees, but the cowboy jester advised that his limit was D. O. A. (doctor of applesauce) from the Oolagah (Okla.) kindergarten. He wired to the Daily Oklahoman:

"What are you trying to do, make a joke out of college degrees? They are in bad enough repute as it is, without handing 'em around to comedians. The whole honorary degree thing is the 'hooey.' I saw some college giving Mellon one and he is a billion bucks short. I got too much respect for people that work and earn 'em to see 'em handed around to every notorious character."

EAGLE LODGES FINED IN DRY VIOLATIONS

Two Officers of McKeesport Branch Get Jail Terms; $700 Homestead Penalty

Fines and jail sentences were meted out to Eagles lodges and their officers today in Federal Court by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker for violations of the prohibition laws.

The McKeesport Eagles were fined $500, William H. Yoy, secretary, and W. C. Gross, steward, were each sentenced to two months in jail for the sale of beer. Howard Clark and Otto G. Nill, trustees, were fined $100 each on a charge of possessing materials for manufacture of beer.

Homestead Eagles No. 769 were fined $700 for the sale and possession of whisky and beer and maintaining their lodge rooms in East Ninth street as a common nuisance.

Mike Wainer, alleged proprietor of a place known as F. O. E. No. 533, 981 Fifth avenue, New Kensington, was fined $200 and sentenced two months in jail for sale and possession of beer and whisky.

SELLING DEVICE TAX DEMANDED

City Treasurer R. D. Schooley today asked the Pittsburgh Railways Company for the name of the company operating the chewing gum vending machines in the street cars. He says the city can collect $1 license fee for each.

About 200 vending machine users paid fees at the treasurer's office today and notices were sent out to 1,000 others advising them to remit the fee in 24 hours or face prosecutions under the ordinance which provides a $10 fine for failure to do so.

Schooley says he is not interested in collecting the fines, but is much concerned about the fees, by the collection of which he hopes to add $15,000 or $20,000 to the city's revenue, under the provisions of the ordinance under which but $113 was paid last year.

CHARITY BOARD MEETING SET

The board of trustees and the women's auxiliary board of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor were to hold their annual meetings jointly today with Daniel M. Clemson, completing his fourteenth year as president of the trustees, presiding. Annual elections of both groups were expected to be held.

Clara Bow Childhood Marked By Tragedy; Family in Want

until there were times when he feared she would die before he could get a doctor.

To this sick mother and this hard working father Clara Bow was born in a tiny house in Brooklyn. Her birth was not an easy one but she came into the world a perfect baby. The mother, who almost gave up her life, immediately showered an almost fanatical devotion on the little mite. The father, Robert Bow, who had secretly feared that this baby, too, would be born dead like the others, felt that his cup of happiness was full.

Loyal Father

He hadn't much money and jobs were scarce, but he made up his mind to do everything he could to make his young wife and his little daughter happy.

He eked out a meager living, often denying himself food so that the mother and babe could live. No work was too menial for him so that he could bring in a few necessary dollars.

"I'm not ashamed," he told me, "to say that I even took a street cleaning job once when there was noting better available. I did everything I could and I would have even scrubbed floors so that Sarah and little Clara would not go hungry."

The tiny baby girl grew into a rosy-cheeked child. She had great dark eyes, and from the time she learned to lisp she would repeat verses that she heard and mimic everyone who came to the house. There were many days when her mother had to stay in bed and, young as little Clara was, she knew that she must not talk loudly or make any noise.

As Mrs. Bow grew steadily worse, jobs for her husband became increasingly difficult. He would be summoned home and fearing that his little girl to whom he was father and mother would be alone with her sick mother, he would leave his work and hurry to Mrs. Bow's bedside.

Days of Sadness

Even those early childhood days of Clara's were filled with sadness and tragedy. She adored her pretty mother, whose blonde hair and big blue eyes had first attracted Robert Bow. But Clara's mother was too ill most of the time to even hold the little girl on her lap.

Later, Clara was to realize that her mother had an aversion to anything that concerned the stage or screen. She was to find that even the mention of an actress would make her mother very unhappy. No wonder, after the harassing experience of her childhood and girlhood Clara clutched frantically at a few straws of happiness once she was out of that depressing environment.

Her first real tragedy came when she was five years old. Her Grandpa Gordan lived with the Bows. He was a gentle, kindly old man who would amuse Clara by the hour, swinging her in a homemade swing and telling her stories. The old man, alone, could bring a smile to Mrs. Bow's face. One day while he was swinging the little girl he fell to the floor unconscious. The doctors said that it was a paralytic stroke due to old age. He only lived a few days.

Clara, lonesome for her playmate, begged for her grandpa to swing her again. Finally, Robert Bow took her by the hand and led her to the front room where the old man lay still and quiet in his last sleep.

Sleeps Beside Coffin

That night Clara crept out of her own little bed and laid down next to the coffin and fell asleep.

"I am afraid grandpa will be lonesome," she told her father.

Even then, at the age of 5, Clara Bow could not bear to think that anyone else was suffering.

The old man's death affected Clara's mother greatly. Each day she grew more melancholy, until for days at a time she would hardly speak to either Clara or her husband.

One time when Clara and I were talking together she told me she felt an unlucky star was in the ascendant when she was born.

"No matter what I do fate seems against me. Why, even when I was a little girl a 4-year-old boy who lived next door to me was burned to death. I rushed in when his mother screamed, grabbed a rug to throw around him and he died in my arms calling: 'Cara! Cara—it hurts!'

Days of Tears

"I don't believe it hurt him as it hurt me. My mother was so sick and playing with this little boy was about the only pleasure I had in the world. I have only cried as hard once since the day Johnnie was burned to death and that was when my mother died."

Clara grew into girlhood in these unhappy surroundings in Brooklyn. Her father, doing his best for her, her mother growing worse each year, until her fainting spells occurred as often as twice a week.

Brooklyn neighbors who knew Clara when she was a little girl, tell of her playing baseball with the boys—a wholesome, rosy-cheeked child, who loved to romp and play.

Clara never owned a doll, but she was a champion runner, and on the days when her mother wasn't sick in bed, Clara used to challenge the Brooklyn kids to a game of run-sheep-run, or hide-and-seek.

I once asked Clara where she was educated.

"I went to public school," she told me. "The stories that have been printed about me being educated in a select girls' school are absurd. We never had enough money to spend to send me to a stylish finishing school. My father did the best he could. When he married my mother, my uncle, Harry Gordon, said he was afraid that mother would have to go to work one day. My father had an interest in a small restaurant and he used to wait on tables."

Money Scarce

"Waiters," said my uncle, "never amount to anything."

"It was my father's proud boast that mother never had to work and that while he could not give us luxuries, at least we always had all the money he earned. It might not have been a banquet of cavier and squab, but we seldom went hungry, although often there wasn't much money in the family pocketbook.

"My father was of French and English parentage and my mother of Scotch and English. I guess I am more like my father," she told me, "for certainly I have never been as thrifty as the Scotch people are reported to be."

Certainly Clara resembles her father. He has twinkling, dark eyes and a smile. He loves a joke and he has Clara's gullibility. His two unfortunate marriages after Mrs. Bow's death show how easily he believes in people. He, too, is generous and wants to share whatever he has with his friends. Certainly an admirable trait, if not a particularly wise one.

Clara Bow faced a mother's hostility in her efforts to crash the movies, but, poverty-stricken, she quailed before the gorgeously dressed contestants in a beauty contest. The dramatic beginning of her climb to stardom will be related tomorrow in Louella Parsons' dramatic story of the "It" girl's career, appearing exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph in Pittsburgh.

The adoption, which took place in Sylvester, Ga., April 30, was not revealed until today. Miss Brunt, who has been literary secretary to Osborn for many years, and whose home is in Hamilton, Ontario, is 37. Osborn is 72.

By the adoption Miss Brunt was granted the name of Stella Lee Osborn. Osborn explained that his advancing age and increased literary work required someone to give him constant attention, and he wished to give his faithful secretary all the advantages of a legal daughter.

Mooney Pardon Plea Refused in House

HARRISBURG, May 19. — The House defeated by a vote of 7 for and 133 against, the resolution of Representative Hoopes, Berks, Socialist, by which the General Assembly would have memorialized Gov. Rolph, of California, to grant an unconditional pardon to Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings. Mooney and Billings are now serving sentences of life imprisonment for murder in connection with the bombing of a Preparedness Day parade in San Francisco in 1916.

AN ADMIRABLE citizen is Edward F. Harkness, who continues a gigantic program of intelligent, public-spirited giving by building for Columbia University a library to hold 4,000,000 books.

Mr. Harkness has already given to Columbia, and allied institutions, $3,600,000.

Last year he gave away, chiefly for education, $31,000,000. In all he has given away more than $55,000,000, not including $2,000,000 every year given in accordance with the wishes of his deceased mother.

Here is that rare thing, a young man NOT spoiled by inherited wealth. He compares favorably with other very rich young men and women that spend their money and time in gambling houses and on the race track, and "getting their pictures in the papers."

Traffic Light Halts Car, Drys Arrest Driver

A jinx in the form of a traffic light waited for Fred Roth, 43, of 838 North Canal street, last night as he sped along Madison avenue in his automobile in which he carried five gallons of moonshine and a small quantity of whisky, prohibition agents said today.

In the 1500 block, Madison avenue, the traffic light changed from green to red, and Roth stopped, according to the agents, who said they drew up alongside of him, spied the liquor, and arrested him.

The agents confiscated his car and the liquor, according to their report, as they did in the case of Ernest Johnson, of 566 Lenora street, whom they reported they found parked in Washington boulevard with a gallon of moon shine in his car.

PHILLIPS AIRS NEW PINCHOT CHARGES

Asserts Governor Aims at Dictatorship of Utilities; Light Rates Defended

The second attack upon Gov. Pinchot's fair rate bills within 12 hours was made in a radio address last night by Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company.

At noon yesterday Phillips had assailed the proposed board in an address before the Hungry Club.

In both addresses, the utilities head answered Pinchot's attack on public utilities. He said the governor had left the impression that the earnings of the Duquesne Light Company were excessive. He said Pinchot has no knowledge of the present valuations of the property of the Duquesne Light Company and therefore had no basis on which to determine what the rate of return has been.

He said:

"Following the hearing of the Senate committee, the governor has dropped his campaign for the Fair Rate Board but has had an amendment made to the Howell Bill providing that he be given the much coveted right to hire and fire Public Service Commissioners at will and without the approval of the Senate.

"Autocratic control would thus be given one man over the destinies of thousands of men and women, employes of these utilities, and over $5,000,000,000 worth of property. Is this not too much power to place in the hands of one individual?"

CHARTER BILL IN CONFERENCE

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Senator James J. Coyne refused in the Senate today to accept the amendments made in the consolidated Pittsburgh charter bill during its visit in the House.

The bill, which passed the Senate previously without the amendments, and the House last night after being amended by Carl Baldrige, will go to conference.

The measure provides that, by a majority vote of a majority of the municipalities in Allegheny County, the county shall become the City of Pittsburgh.

End of Fokker Ban Seen in Ten Days

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP.)—Assistant Secretary Young, of the Commerce Department, expects many of the 1929 model Fokker planes, which two weeks ago were barred from commercial passenger service, to be restored to duty within 10 days.

Boys' Club Praises Legislator's Vote For Sunday Ball

HARRISBURG, May 19.—(AP.)—The Allied Boys' Clubs of Philadelphia presented Representative Harry A. Surface, of Snyder, with a resolution "praising his courageous stand" in support of the Denning Sunday baseball bill last week.

Representative Surface's vote came as a surprise and added one vote to the constitutional majority necessary for passage.

The club represents a membership of between 40,000 and 50,000, and the resolution was passed at a meeting last Saturday.

SENATE PASSES VOTE AREA BILL

HARRISBURG, May 19.—By a vote of 39 to 10 the Senate passed the Spangler bill reapportioning the state into 34 Congressional districts.

As it had passed the House, it embodied the Pinchot-Grundy plan of redistricting the state, but the Senate rewrote the bill in accord with the plan of the Republican state organization.

The changes are not expected to be accepted by the House, which today will consider on second reading the McClure bill, which the House has rewritten in accord with the Pinchot-Grundy plan. Both bills are expected to end the week in the hands of a conference committee of three members of each house, which will draft a compromise bill.

Senate Approves Vet Bonus Measure

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Without a dissenting vote, the Senate passed Representative Arthur Storer's amendment to the Constitution to bond the state for $50,000,000 for bonus to Pennsylvania veterans of wars since 1898. It will be referred to voters for ratification in November, 1933. The Rice amendment, proposing $10,000,000 state bonds for freeing toll bridges, also was passed, but needs approval of the 1933 Legislature before being submitted to voters.

Pilot Killed, Student Hurt, in Plane Crash

PONTIAC, Mich., May 19.—(AP.)—A pleasure ride ended fatally for Jay Dillon, 21, Pontiac pilot, last night when his plane crashed near the Pontiac Municipal Airport. Eunid Patton, 18, a student flier, was injured seriously.

Walker Confirmation To P. S. C. Held Up

HARRISBURG, May 19.—(AP.)—The Senate Committee on executive nominations today decided to postpone until next Monday night reporting of the nomination of Samuel Walker, of Butler, for confirmation for a 10-year term as a Public Service commissioner.

SENATE FIGHT LOOMS OVER BALL BILL

Blue Law Measure Held By Hostile Group, But Liberals See Success

HARRISBURG, May 19.—The battle over the blue law local option measure of Representative Denning, which would permit Sunday baseball, struck the Senate's Law and Order Committee with full force today.

A meeting, slated in spite of many of the committee members' wishes, is expected to bring on a bitter argument over whether the measure shall be sent on to the floor.

Liberals are optimistic, in the event the bill reaches the floor, that it will be passed, claiming enough votes to put it over. Considerable difficulties face them in the committee, however, loaded 2-to-1 against anti-blue law measures by a pre session agreement in which certain senators voted for Daix against Mansfield in the president pro tem fight.

It is understood votes that swung the election of Daix were given on the promise to rural senators that the Law and Order Committee would be so organized that no liberal legislation would live after once it reached there.

Boy Speeders Must Copy Traffic Code of State

WENATCHEE, Wash., May 19.—(AP.)—Two Wenatchee youths set to work today copying in longhand the entire state traffic code of 31,000 words.

Justice Fred Mintzer sentenced Howard Apples, 17, and Joe France, 15, to the task when they pleaded guilty to using a street for a speedway, resulting in the crash of three cars.

MUSMANNO BILL IN CONFERENCE

HARRISBURG, May 19.—The Musmanno coal and iron police bill was delegated to a sub-committee of the Senate's judiciary general committee today.

Late today the small group, comprising Senators Parkinson, Ealy and Williamson, will meet with Representative M. A. Musmanno to discuss the bill, and perhaps suggest a possible amendment to allow the property guards provided in the measure to leave the property. The repealer was not assigned, it being considered unnecessary.

While the sub-committee movement often operates for the "pickling" of a bill, Musmanno said he felt there was hope, and that in the event of an amendment would not restrict the fundamental provisions of the bill, he would accept a compromise.

HARRISBURG, May 19.—(AP.)—The Fitzgerald resolution to memorialize Congress to prohibit immigration for five years has been passed by the House of Representatives. On a diversion the vote was 77 ayes to 28 noes.

Banning of immigration into this country was urged in the resolution as a means of relieving the unemployment situation.

State to Pay For Car Doe Damaged

HARRISBURG, May 19.—(AP.)—An appropriation of $1,100.25 to cover damage done to an automobile by a female deer is provided in a bill passed finally by the House today.

The claim is that of Patrick J. Colangelo, of Allegheny County, whose car was damaged when the doe leaped in the path of his car on a state highway.

URGE MAN HERE FOR BENN POST

Gov. Pinchot today was urged by City Council to consider the appointment of a Western Pennsylvanian for appointment to the Public Service Commission to fill the post vacated by James S. Benn. Resignation of Bennearch foe of Pinchot on his utilities fight—was announced last week.

Councilman Robert Garland, who presented legislation asking that the Governor consider a Western Pennsylvania appointee, pointed out that a representative from this section had not been on the Commission for several years.

Garland said Allegheny County represents one-seventh of the state's population and pays one-sixth of the state's taxes.

Driver Asleep, Auto Crashes Into Office

PAOLI, Pa., May 19.—(AP.)—Falling asleep at the wheel of his automobile while driving to his home in Brooklyn from Pittsburgh, Frank Parimello awoke part way in the real estate office of Henry W. Davis here. Parimello, Oliver Jalbert, also of Brooklyn, and the latter's wife were treated for cuts and bruises.

The car knocked a traffic sign through a grocery store window and then crashed into the real estate office next door. Parimello, who made arrangement to pay the damage, said he had been driving all night.

Aged Storekeeper Gets Year for Arson

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 19.—C. A. Krape, 70, convicted of arson in the burning of his store at Spring Mills, was refused a new trial and sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for not less than one nor more than 10 years.

MINE FIRE COST ADJUSTED

Crafton Borough and the city, after lengthy negotiations, have agreed to an adjustment on the cost of extinguishing a mine fire, burning for years on the McShane property, near the city's line.

Crafton Council passed a resolution for the borough to pay one-fourth of the ultimate cost. The proposition was suggested to the Crafton officials by President John S. Herron, of City Council.

Estimated cost of the job is $26,000.

LIFE FOR KILLER OF GARAGE MAN

John A. Schulkins, 31, 7819½ Hamilton avenue, former fire ranger, today began serving a life term in the Western Penitentiary for slaying William A. McClintock, 36, of 7924 Susquehanna street, garage watchman, last February 22.

The sentence was imposed by Visiting Judge S. John Morrow, of Fayette County, who yesterday heard Schulkins plead guilty and listened to testimony before fixing the crime as first-degree murder.

Schulkins, on the witness stand, said he had been drinking and, on impulse, entered the garage and took an automobile. McClintock, chasing him in another car, crashed into the fleeing machine two blocks away. Schulkins said he fired into the air, and then several shots were fired while the men grappled, two of which struck McClintock, and one pierced Schulkins' leg.

MITCHELL SEES LESSONS IN AIR REVIEW

Hails 'Greatest Peace Time Maneuvers' as Example Of Need of Unified Service

By GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL
Former Commander Air Forces, A. E. F. and Director Military Aeronautics, United States Army

DAYTON, O., May 19.—I have just finished three days' observation and inspection of the Army air force which has been gathered together at Dayton.

With the exception of the time when the aircraft sank the battleships off the Virginia Capes, proving for all time definitely and conclusively that aircraft dominate seacraft, this is the most important peace-time military maneuver ever held in the United States. This includes any maneuvers held by armies or navies.

The air force flew to Dayton from the east coast and the west coast and from our northern frontier opposite Canada and our southern frontier in Texas. The airplanes averaged about 1,000 miles apiece for this trip, and as there were 672 participating, it means that 672,000 miles were covered by the planes without a serious mishap.

COMPARES AREA TO EUROPE

If we were to apply the distances covered to the map of Europe we would find this force covered an area corresponding to the distance between the Arctic Ocean and the Mediterranean and between the Atlantic Ocean and the Caspian Sea.

The object of a nation at war with another is to impress its will on the enemy by physical means. This can only be done by making it impossible for the enemy to live in his usual habitations, to supply himself and consider himself safe. In future wars, vital centers will be attacked directly by aircraft.

The air force assembled at Dayton can deliver a hundred tons of bombs 300 miles away from a fueling point every seven hours. This can be kept up day and night and 300 tons of bombs can be delivered every 24 hours. With machine guns, this air force can deliver more than 24,000 bullets per minute.

NATION'S RELIANCE

To the casual observer, the exercises of this division may appear merely as a circus or holiday, but it is on these men, their leaders and their aircraft, that the nation will have to rely if we have another great war. The value of air power is paramount to everything else.

That we still lag in it is due to the fact that some parts of it are assigned to the Navy, some to the Army, some to the Department of Commerce, some to the Postoffice Department, some to the National Advisory Committee, and several others.

Every other civilized nation has an independent air force.

We hope that the lessons taught by the exercises of our provisional air division will be taken seriously by the people. Air power is the thing we are especially proficient in and we should specialize in it as our principal means of national defense.

The unit here, they added, could cut a swath of destruction a dozen miles wide and in a few brief minutes make a smoking mass of ruins of Chicago.

Brig. Gen. D. B. Foulois and 20 Army officers of the fleet of 105 Army planes which will stop here Thursday, are to be the guests of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce at the chambers' organization meeting at noon. Gen. Foulois is now in Dayton, O., and he wired yesterday that he would be present with his officers.

The fliers will be met at Bettis Field and escorted to the chamber by motorcycle policemen. The planes will arrive shortly after 9 o'clock and will leave at 2 o'clock.

Misses' Jacket Frocks

MAKING NEW FRIENDS AND KEEPING THE OLD

If you . . . like most people . . . prefer a car that is neither the cheapest nor the most expensive, but rather a happy medium, you will find the Pontiac the kind of car you like at the price you want to pay

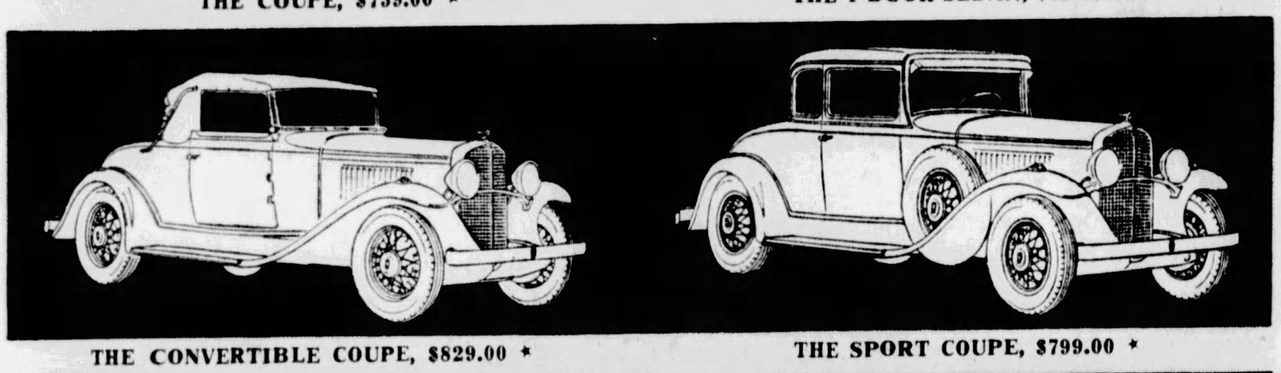
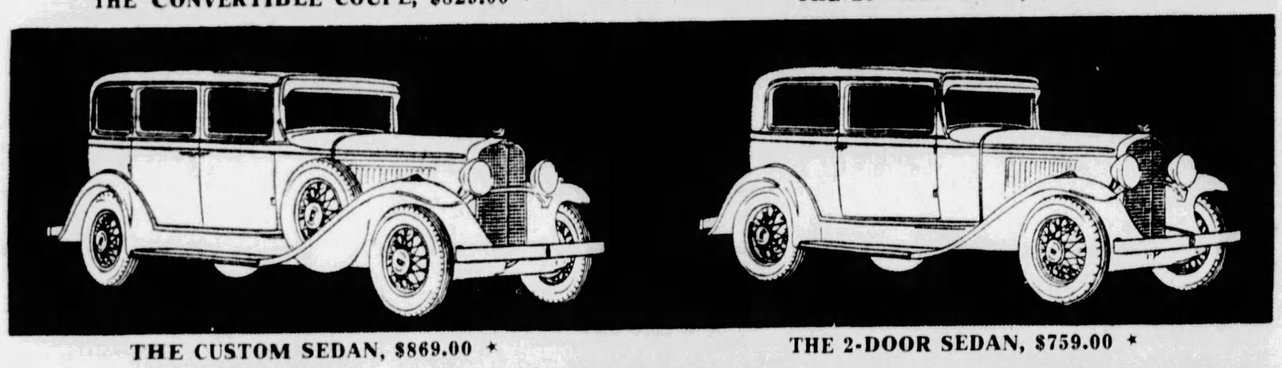
THE COUPE, $759.00 * THE 4-DOOR SEDAN, $829.00 *



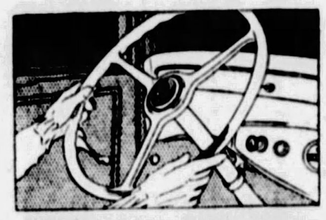
THE CONVERTIBLE COUPE, $829.00 * THE SPORT COUPE, $799.00 *



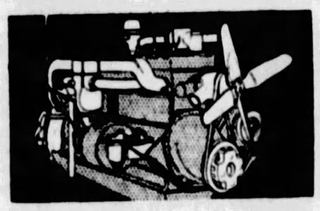
THE CUSTOM SEDAN, $869.00 * THE 2-DOOR SEDAN, $759.00 *

* One important step in reducing your cost of car ownership is Oakland-Pontiac's policy of equipping its cars ready for the road. The prices you note above are for cars delivered and equipped in Pittsburgh. The prices include front and rear bumpers, four hydraulic shock absorbers, five wire wheels, and extra tire, tube and tire lock. Wood wheels optional at no extra cost

Things to note when you drive the new Pontiac



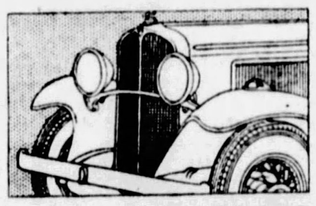
The moment you step into this car you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles—answering your lightest touch. The slender steel-and-rubber wheel invites a "finger grip"—and that's quite sufficient. You use little effort in braking or clutching.



You'll remark the quick getaway . . . the rapid acceleration . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60-horsepower engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

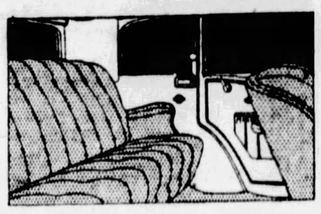
You'll experience a new riding ease. Springs are deep; seat-cushions agreeably form-fitting, of course. But more important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at more than 40 points.

You'll be proud as you drive your Pontiac — conscious that other people admire it. They'll approve its modish lines, V-radiator, chrome radiator screen, one-piece fenders with fender lamps, wide, single-bar bumpers, tailored splash apron.



You'll sense extra security in Pontiac. The famous Fisher Body wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against outside cold, heat, and dampness. Cowl and windshield pillars are built in one piece—a leak-proof, rattle-free construction. The first touch on the big brakes tells the story of unusual stopping power.

You'll find the Pontiac interior tastefully fitted, appointed, finished. Rich long-wearing mohair or whipcord in the closed cars—select leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.



Summing up, you'll agree that Pontiac Six is indeed a happy medium—the kind of car you want at the price you want to pay.

ARCTIC SUB MAY CARRY RADIO ICE BREAKER

By HERMAN GIESKE

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 19.—The startling possibility of cracking icebergs by means of scientifically graduated submarine sound waves was suggested today to officers of the trans-Arctic submarine Nautilus by William J. St. Jacques, chief radioman for the United States submarine base here.

As a result of his suggestion, the Nautilus may carry to the North Pole a device intended to obviate use of explosives in case the boat should be trapped in a subsea ice gorge.

St. Jacques explained:

"It is a matter of record that the United States destroyer Stewart while cruising in the North Atlantic actually shattered several icebergs with the ordinary oscillator used on submarines."

THEORY EXPLAINED

The explanation is simple. The oscillator merely happened to send out sound waves pitched to the natural period of those particular bergs. Hence the berg itself began to vibrate in tune with the oscillator, and shattered itself.

Continuing, St. Jacques said:

"Whether the device would work in the Arctic is problematical. The ordinary oscillators range from 510 to 570 cycles and from 1,050 to 1,080 cycles. But oscillators could be given a wide range by means of special diaphragms.

"A further test might be made of electro-magnetic oscillators, using a magneto structure force capable of easy change of frequencies and capable also of operating in the inaudible sound bands.

WAVE NOT HEARD

"Thus the Nautilus might send out a wave which the ear could not detect, but powerful enough to shatter a field of ice. The effect of sound waves on a field of Arctic ice would be a most interesting experiment.

"To crack icebergs with a sound would probably mean low-pitched frequencies for the bigger bergs and higher frequencies for the smaller ones. There appears to be no doubt that every berg has a natural period at which it will vibrate under excitation.

"I am told, however, that the Nautilus in the Arctice summer does not expect to encounter icebergs. The possibility of using sound waves to break submerged ice gorges, I believe, is thoroughly practicable."

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET PLANNED

A delegation of 25 members of the Allegheny County Sabbath School Association will attend the eleventh world's Sunday School convention to be held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, July 25-31, 1932, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. J. Kirkwood Craig, general secretary, at a meeting of local workers in the Keystone Athletic Club. The meeting was attended by the Rev. Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, of New York, general secretary of the World's Sunday School Association, and Prof. Erasmo Braga, of Rio de Janeiro, secretary of the committee on cooperation.

One of the themes of the convention will be "The Christian Answer to Modern Secularism" dealing with the modern trend of materialistic thinking. The Brazilian government has granted the use of the Municipal Theater for the occasion, at which 2,000 delegates from all parts of the world are expected to be present, according to Dr. Hopkins.

27th Ward Group Protests Playground

Forty taxpayers petitioned City Council in opposition to a proposed playground on Marmaduke street, Twenty-seventh Ward. The protest was made in writing yesterday. No reason was given for the opposition.

2 Wealthy Britons May Give Half Riches to Poor

LONDON, May 19.—(AP.)—Sir Charles Trevelyan, who recently resigned as minister of education has been challenged by Arthur Crosby, a Conservative member of Parliament to practice what he preaches—better distribution of wealth.

If he accepts the challenge both men, who are very wealthy, will have to give half their fortunes to the poor of Newcastle.

CHURCH ELECTS PITTSBURGHER

JEANNETTE, Pa., May 19.—The Rev. H. L. Cross, pastor of the Church of the Ascension, North Side, Pittsburgh, was elected president of the Pittsburgh Synod of the Reformed church at the sixty-second annual meeting of the synod, in the Grace Reformed Church here last night.

The Rev. Glenn M. Crawford, pastor of the Presbyterian church, on behalf of the Jeannette Ministerial Association, welcomed the visiting ministers and laymen at the opening of the meeting. The Rev. Paul J. Dundore delivered the response.

There were almost 200 ministers and laymen present at the opening session last night, and more arrived for today's sessions.

Two conferences were held, one on religious education and the other on missions and stewardship, preceding the regular meeting of the synod.

NO NEED TO EAT TASTELESS PEAS

Their Appealing Flavor Can Be Restored by Adding Sugar

Green peas, fresh-picked, are a delicious and important food. However, when they are taken off the vines they begin to lose their flavor and distinctive sweetness.

It is a good rule whenever you serve peas to add "a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt" as they cook. The salt overcomes flatness and the sugar restores the natural sweetness which has been lost. This combination of sugar and salt produces equally delicious results in the cooking of most vegetables whether canned or fresh.

Many cooks keep a mixture of sugar and salt within reach. Some use two parts sugar to one part salt—some, equal parts. Either combination is splendid for seasoning meats and stews and also in the making of salad dressings. Flavor and season with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

How Weak, Frail, Thin People Gain Needed Weight and Strength

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets Increase Your Weight 5 Pounds in 30 Days or Your Druggist is Authorized to Return Your Money.

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Thin, rundown, anemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for it.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Any druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets — and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks.

Senator Reed Predicts U. S. Will Be in World Court Within 12 Months

Within the next 12 months the United States will be in the World Court, Senator David Aiken Reed prophesied in his talk on the international goodwill day program in Carnegie Music Hall last night. He also said there's going to be great deal of heated discussion on the subject, as it will be one of the most discussed topics before the public. Senator Reed sketched the history of the World Court and touched on this country's five reservations. He concluded with the statement that the time will come when it will be considered just as disreputable for two nations to go to war as it is now for two men to start an altercation on the street with their fists.

The evening's program, which was one of intense interest from start to finish, was under auspices of the women's organizations of the district and its purpose was exemplified in a line of the invocation offered by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson — "that there may be good will in the councils of life and peace among the nations."

The American Legion Auxiliary, included as one of the co-operating organizations, withdrew because of a ruling forbidding affiliation with any other body.

Mrs. A. H. Bowman, chairman, presented Judge Sara Soffel, who presided and whose introductions were the very essence of graciousness. The program was opened by the Timpson Hardy Singers, who thrilled and enthused the large audience with their racial spirituals, beautifully sung.

In her impressive address on "Canons Versus Cannons," Judge Florence Allen, of Ohio, said the problem of peace is one of the individual heart, but it must be implemented into government.

Judge Speaks

The question of war is not a question for the President, but a question for the fathers and mothers and the plain people of the United States expressed through their chosen representatives. When men invest their money in unstable lands, they should defend it with their own sons and brothers and not the sons and brothers of other people, she almost thundered, if one of such gentle speech may be said ever to thunder.

Completing the program was a highly dramatic playlet called "Voices," exceedingly well directed and presented by the Pittsburgh Young Women's Christian Association.

VARIETY IN CHARMING SUITS THE SPICE OF MODISH LIFE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 19.—If variety is the spice of life, then suits ought to be enjoying a well-seasoned season. For we do not remember ever having seen such a diversity and variety in the suit line as has been available this year. Usually when suits are in, there are but one or two models that are designated as correct and we wear these even if they don't intrigue us just because one must have a suit of a certain type. But now we can wear anything from the classic navy blue tailor-made to a saucy little silk suit with a wisp of a jacket and still be clothed in style and good taste. Needless to say, most of us have quickly availed ourselves of the generosity of the mode, and we are all, for once, wearing suits that really become us for all occasions of the day. The suit is a pleasing variation from the coat and dress fashion and for this alone should be welcome to those women who demand something different in a sartorial way once in a while. So here's hoping that the suit in all its pleasing variations will be with us for a long time.

* * *

DEPICTED IN TODAY'S sketches are two suits that show graphically the wide range of which this fashion is capable. The model to the left is a most spring-like and feminine affair. The jacket and skirt are of pale gray wool-homespun and the blouse is of pale pink georgette, finely tucked—a most pleasing color combination always. In lieu of sleeves, Heim the maker has placed shallow capelets that form a shoulder yoke and give a cool, youthful silhouette. The circular skirt is wrapped over in front.

* * *

MARCEL ROCHAS makes the tailored ensemble also sketched. It is of beige tweed flecked with brown and black. By varying the direction of the ribbing of the fabric in various parts of both frock and coat, a well-tailored effect is achieved. The turn-down collar and mannish tie are of the tweed which is rather light-weight in texture. There is no collar on the coat. A touch of dark brown suede on the belt matches the brown suede gloves.

PALS OF SLAIN YOUTH HELD

Three companions of the Pittsburgh youth, killed in a frustrated gasoline service station robbery at Elyria, O., were awaiting action of the grand jury there today, following their alleged admission to police that they had intended robbing the station.

A youth, believed to have been Wilson Earl Cole, 19, of 1408 Beverly place, Brookline, was shot to death after he threatened the station owner, Matt Gardner, with a revolver. Cole had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. William A. St. Vincent, who had befriended him.

The other youths are Henry Jollie, 19, who, it was said, ran away from his home, at 183 Banner way, a year ago, and Alfred Gallo, 15, and Nicholas Perrotta, 19, both of New York.

Cole was killed, police said, when Gardner, who had been robbed 13 times previously, answered his "hands up" order by firing his own revolver.

Ill General Obeys Doctor Posing As Pershing

OMAHA, Neb., May 19.—(AP.)—In delirium as he lay on his death bed at a hospital last week, Brig. Gen. Leroy Eltinge refused to take medicine ordered by his doctor.

His nurse last night told how the general was "commanded" to take it. The general demanded:

"Who are you to tell me, commander of an entire brigade, what to do?"

The reply was:

"I am Gen. Pershing; I command you to take your medicine."

Gen. Eltinge, she said, raised his hand feebly in salute and took the medicine.

He was buried yesterday in Arlington Cemetery with full military honors.

MAN ACQUITTED OF PERJURY

A jury in Criminal Court today was directed to acquit George Gaydos, of Homestead, of a perjury charge, brought against him by Lee Baird, Negro, of Homestead, recently convicted and sentenced for operating a Homestead gambling house.

Gaydos was the star witness for the state in the trial that sent Baird to the workhouse for a term from which he was recently paroled.

Visiting Judge S. John Morrow ordered the acquittal after Henry Broaddus, Negro, of Homestead, a witness for the prosecution, testified he knew Baird had "run a game." Joseph Frank, proprietor of the Club Mirador, had testified that Baird did not operate a gambling house.

STEEL MERGER SCANNED BY U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(INS.)—Anti-trust specialists of the Department of Justice were examining the proposed merger of the Eastern Steel Company, of Pottsville, Pa., with the Bethlehem Steel Company today to ascertain if the absorption of the smaller company came within the scope of the Sherman and Clayton acts.

Representative Brumm (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, yesterday requested presidential intervention to prevent the deal, asserting that it not only violated the anti-trust laws, but that it also would result in the scrapping of the eastern plant and the unemployment of approximately 1,000 men. Mr. Hoover referred the case to the Department of Justice for consideration.

Brumm was bitter in his criticism of the Bethlehem interests, charging them with not abiding by the pledge which industry gave to the White House not to cut wages. The Bethlehem interests, he said, had reduced wages and workmen since the depression.

Capture Rules Out Robber as Expert

BELLINGHAM, Wash., May 19.—(AP.)—Efforts of the state to qualify Frank M. Blakeslee as an expert robber, so he could testify in the trial of Al Boyd and Olaf Johnson, accused of possessing burglar tools, were unsuccessful yesterday.

The court ruled that because Blakeslee had taken part in only two burglaries and was captured in both he was not an expert.

Charges Mate Traded Paintings for Rum

CHICAGO, May 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Kinsman Adams, an artist, charged in a suit for divorce filed yesterday that her husband, Lawrence Adams, of Wheaton, took some of her paintings and wax statues to Wheaton speakeasies in exchange for drinks for himself and friends, including Harold (Red) Grange, the football star.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, May 19.

SPEAKING of racketeers and such, as everybody seems to be doing these days, numerous important people around the country are blaming the advance of the criminal on the gangster film and the more sensational newspapers. Deacon Will Hays, who tells the producers what they must not put in the films and then blinks nervously while they do it, has ordered a curtailment of gangster pictures. That will certainly help a lot—maybe.

Personally, I can't see where the pictures have anything to do with the situation. The criminal pictures only came into vogue a year or so ago. And, if memory serves me correctly, I think we had several criminals in this country a few years before that. Correct me if I'm mistaken.

I've been interested in motion pictures for many years and I don't think they ever made me do anything I didn't want to do. While the "Perils of Pauline" thrilled me mightily, I don't remember going home and harboring a desire to throw my girl from a moving freight. And while such bloodthirsty serials as "The Iron Claw" and the "Exploits of Elaine" made me play hookey from school on several occasions, I cannot recall that they gave me a yen to ride a horse over a cliff or put a bullet through my father's Sunday derby.

Skipping to more recent days, they told me that a picture called "The Public Enemy" was the last word in gunman films. I went to the Strand Theater the other night and saw it. If anything in this world would keep me from turning gangster "The Public Enemy" would do it. The last shot in the film is so brutally horrible that I shudder as I write of it. If that picture is an aid to crime, then Al Capone is my sister-in-law's niece.

The picture magnates are giving the public only those things that the public wants to buy. The same goes for any line of endeavor in the universe, including newspapers. The reading public demands crime news, and the paper that attempts to suppress it is soon lost in the shuffle.

Mr. Franklin P. Adams, scholarly columnist for the revered New York Herald-Tribune, let off a blast a few days ago about the more sensational newspapers. Mr. Adams is a brilliant writer and I am always interested in his opinions. Even though he has failed to keep in step with the times and still thinks that the discovery of a split infinitive is more interesting to his readers than a good gag, I read him daily to improve my English. That he hasn't helped me much is no fault of his.

The Herald-Tribune columnist is one of those who thinks that the racketeer stories are overdone. He blames the more sensational papers for increasing the lure of criminal life and wrings his hands in horror at the writings of "star reporters" who, he insists, glamorize the criminal.

"It sickens me," was the manner in which Mr. Adams finished his blast.

The day following Mr. Adams' indictment, the revered Herald-Tribune, which I hardly think the columnist meant to include in the sensational class, began a series of articles on page one. They were written by Alva Johnson, star reporter on Mr. Adams' own paper. The heading on the first article was "Millions Paid in City Tribute to Racketeers."

If Mr. Adams was sick when he wrote his blast I fear he must be desperately ill after reading the Herald-Tribune the following morning. . . .

No, my friends, I hardly think it's either the newspapers or the gangster films that are to be blamed for the advance of the racketeer. There's a little law called prohibition that might have something to do with the situation. When that law is placed on a sensible basis, the march of the modern racketeer is halted overnight.

Such a course, however, would call for common sense among the more important people of the nation. Congress, for instance. And whoever heard of a congressman getting straight to the root of the trouble when he could beat around the bush for years and years—and get plenty of applause while he's doing it?

* * *

THE DEATH of David Belasco was not unexpected. He was an elderly man and he had certainly lived a full life. Until the very end he was able to attend sporting events and theaters. Even as he passed on, his theater housed a Belasco production that is one of the few hits in town. Such deaths are rare. If I had my choice that is the way I would like to go.

This, I suppose, is the spot for a Belasco anecdote. All right. One of his greatest favorites concerned the cloak and suit model who suddenly developed a hunch that she could become a theatrical star if she wanted to. After the other models had kidded her long enough, she tossed up her job and walked to the Belasco Theater.

In order to reach the Belasco office she had to climb several flights of stairs. She tired easily. By the time she reached the second flight she had lost much of her desire to become an actress. By the time she gained the office she had lost it all.

Just outside the office a sign met her eye. It was very definite. "No casting or jobs of any kind," it read. "Please do not apply."

The model, puffing heavily, walked right through and insisted on seeing Belasco. She wouldn't take no for an answer. She finally created such a disturbance that the great producer walked out to her.

"Madame," he said, "you are making a great deal of noise. What is it that you want?"

The girl grasped his arm and walked him to the sign that told of no jobs of any kind.

"You see that sign?" she questioned.

"Yes," replied the producer. "What about it?"

She drew a long breath.

LANG REQUESTS EXTRA FUNDS

Permission for extra work on street improvement projects was again sought by the Department of Public Works from Council, yesterday. Director Edward G. Lang asked the right to request Nardula & Sons Company, contractors on the Independence street improvement, to present a figure on the extra items.

Lang said after work had been started on the job, it was discovered a building within the street line was in a dangerous condition as the result of excavations. A resolution for payment for work on the building will be presented, should Council agree.

During the Henry Oliver Evans investigation of the department, extra work items were under fire, Evans charging the engineers showed lack of efficient judgment in their original estimates by not including possible extra work items in the contract price.

JOB AID POLICY UP IN COUNCIL

Discussion of the city's future policy with the Allegheny County Emergency Association in furnishing laborers on street, sewer and grading projects will be held by Council's Committee on Finance today.

Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert, of the Public Works Department, gave Council a report on work done in co-operation with the association.

Nine projects completed, he said, cost $84,532. The city's share for materials and supplies was $61,000. Four projects under way will cost the city $150,000 and the association $56,200. Thirty-six job contemplated will cost the city $263,550 and the association $357,420. In all, Reppert declared, the city has appropriated $774,639 for the relief projects, and the association $383,463.

CHICAGO MIXUP FAR FROM END

CHICAGO, May 19.—(AP.)—Years will be required to straighten out tax-wracked Cook County's financial muddle, bankers told county officials at a conference called to seek a way out of the difficulty.

In the face of the poorest tax collections Cook County has known, the officials appealed to the bankers to prescribe a remedy that would show immediate effect. The county needs funds to meet payrolls, liquidate overdue bills, keep the government running and take up the 1929 tax anticipation warrants held by the banks.

Only about half the 1929 tax levy of $276,000,000 has been paid, the lowest rate of collection in the county's history.

Alfred A. Austrian, chief spokesman for the bankers, laid that group's view of the muddle before the conference, called by County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough, who said immediate action was needed.

The association is composed of American Poles, who, over the draft age in 1917, went to Canada to enlist. Only about half of the 28,000 who enlisted, returned.

Council also authorized the institution of a suit against the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company for the payment of a license fee of $1,800 for its operation here.

CITY MUST PAY $9,000 DAMAGES

A verdict of $9,000 damages against the City of Pittsburgh in favor of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dailey for their property at Irwin and Marshall avenues, North Side, was returned by a jury in Common Pleas Court before Judge Elder W. Marshall. The property was taken by the city for the opening of Magin street from Irwin avenue to Crespin street in 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Braun of Natrona, filed suit against James A. Lindsay, of Pittsburgh, in Common Pleas Court, asking $50,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Braun in an automobile collision. The Braun automobile, driven by a son, Alfred Braun, was struck May 9 on the Culmerville-Saxonburg road near Ivywood, Butler County, by the car of Lindsay, who was driving recklessly around a curve, according to the suit.

Coast Newspaper Veteran Dies at 49

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19.—(Universal.)—Roy C. Fairchild, for 20 years affiliated with Hearst newspapers, died yesterday as a result of a heart attack. Fairchild, who was born in Woodstock, Ill., was 49 years old. He started his newspaper career in Chicago, was later affiliated with the Examiner, and has since been a staff member of the Oakland Post-Enquirer.

Police Radio Traps Man in Stolen Car

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—(INS.)—Report of a stolen automobile reaching a police radio car a minute after the occurrence resulted in the arrest of the thief today, although the windows were shot out of the police sedan. No casualties were reported as the officers subdued the prisoner, who gave his name as Jack Anderson.

Business Men Find Non-Skid Pad Aid

LONDON, May 19.—A non-skid memorandum pad is in use in some business offices. It has a rubber back which grips a desk. The idea is that it will stay put and will not elude a busy business man taking notes of deals over the telephone.

Alaska No Place For Jobless, Wilbur Says

WASHINGTON, May 19.—(AP.)—Anyone who takes Secretary Wilbur's advice and goes to Alaska to engage in pioneering had better take along sufficient supplies and funds to tide him over until his earning power is established.

The Interior chief made it clear today that Alaska was no place for a job-hunter and that its opportunities were only for the man equipped to seek fortune on his own. Both in mining and farming, he said, the surface barely had been scratched in the great northwestern territory and thousands of square miles await the pioneer, but he pointed out there were no payrolls looking for takers.

FARMERS URGED TO SELL HERE

Citing the advantages of local markets for state farmers, Frank Shaffer, manager of the Natural Resources Division of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, in a survey published yesterday declared that although Pittsburghers paid a total of $5,172,640 for farm products shipped here last year, only $162,360 of it went to state farmers. The survey, entitled "Acres of Dollars", urged Western Pennsylvania farmers to send more produce into the Pittsburgh market. He said:

"The Pittsburgh district farmer has many natural advantages over his competitor in other states. He can place his products on the market more quickly and in better condition than his competitors; he enjoys a big advantage in transportation costs, freight rates for the district farmer averaging much less than those paid by rivals who dominate the local market."

McIntyre Speaks At Election Meet

City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre, speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Electric League of Pittsburgh yesterday, discussed the value of objective research in traffic planning as opposed to "common sense" methods. The meeting was held in the Roosevelt Hotel.

GOOD-WILL ELKS GREETED HERE

More than 300 members of the B. P. O. Elks participated in Pittsburgh's celebration of the national good-will tour being conducted by officers of the grand lodge of New York. The tourists, including Joseph H. Downing and J. H. Hamilton, representing the grand lodge, were officially greeted here by Director Edward G. Lang, of the Public Works Department, who represented Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Last night the visitors were guests at a dinner in the Elks' Temple, Seventh street and Duquesne way. The party left this morning for Wheeling.

SEEK TO ALTER ROAD GRADE

Because the original grade decided upon did not come up to the specifications of the State Department of Highways, the City Department of Public Works has asked Council for permission to re-establish the grade of Noblestown road.

The thoroughfare is to be resurfaced by the city with state aid, at an estimated cost of $185,000.

When the grade was first established, the city set the curb grades at 15 inches. The state objected, requiring a two foot grade. Part of the thoroughfare from a curve east of Obey avenue to Baldwin road is affected.

Woman Arrested As Drys Seize Still

Margaret Samatuskas, of 2011 Carey way, was arrested last night when prohibition agents seized a 10-gallon still in her home, it was reported. A still of five-gallon capacity was reported confiscated at 1906 Sarah street, and two quarts of gin and a gallon of moonshine in a building at Hazelwood and Kansas streets.

ASK SIMPLIFIED TRAFFIC LAW

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre left Pittsburgh last night for Harrisburg to confer with Ben G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, and Allegheny County senators, on the simplification of the proposed "summary arrest for traffic law violation" amendment. The present form of the amendment would necessitate considerable clerical work by arresting officers.

Rerouting of traffic on the Boulevard of the Allies as planned by the Better Traffic Committee and the Traffic Planning Bureau is in effect as follows: Inbound traffic will be detoured throughout the day, with the exception of the two-hour period from 8 to 10 a. m., down Magee street and into the downtown district by way of Fifth avenue. Outbound traffic will use the boulevard throughout the day, with the exception of the two-hour period, when it will be detoured by way of Second avenue and Bates street.

Peers Duel for Lady, Baron in Hospital

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 19.—Baron Wimpfen is in a hospital with his head bandaged. He had a fist fight with Baron Wassner over a lady. A duel with cavalry swords followed.

OPPOSE CANAL ABANDONMENT

NEW HOPE, Pa., May 19.—(AP.)—Residents of communities bordering the Pennsylvania canal have decided to demand a hearing at Harrisburg on a bill which, they contend, aims to eliminate the stream, place its maintenance on the shoulders of the state, and destroy the scenic beauty of that section and its fire protection.

The water of the canal laps the shore of many historic spots in Bucks and Northampton counties. The bill, introduced by Senator Clarence J. Buckman, Bucks County, premits the state to receive as a gift the right of way of the lower portion of the canal—Bristol to Easton.

The measure relieves the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company of obligation to maintain the canal and would afford the Highway Department opportunity to widen the Delaware River road, which parallels it. It is this part of the bill that stirred the residents to action.

Miner Loses Life, Crushed by Car

WHEELING, W. Va., May 19.—(AP.)—Earl Reading, 46, of Benwood, was killed when caught under a coal car that jumped its track at a curve.

Danger
in accepting unknown substitutes for Kotex

WHEN substitution may endanger health, beware! When considering a substitute for Kotex, pause. Ask yourself: "What do I know of the hygiene of this sanitary pad? Who made it? Where?"

These questions remain unanswered when you accept a substitute of whose makers you know nothing. Yet they must be answered for your safety.

The answer, of course, is Kotex. Always Kotex. Then you're safe. Kotex is made in hospital-like surroundings. More than ten million Kotex pads were used by hospitals last year. This assurance of safety is beyond price.

Kotex is adjustable. Shaped to fit. May be worn on either side with safety.

BARBARIC MARCH, STORY OF 'LOST BATTALION' ON RADIO

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, May 19.—The radio army has finally stormed the ramparts of the Ritz-Carlton. It took a long time. For years the hotel showed a firm resistance to every attack of the broadcasters.

Now the radio men are shifting their fire upon the new Waldorf. It will be an important conquest. . . . The old Waldorf was one of the first hotels in the land to send its orchestra through the ether. It wasn't jazzbo music, either. Nice, discreet chamber music, flashed as an aid to digestion. . . . Senator Dill plans to find out what is wrong with American radio by listening to European programs. Our broadcasters would tell him he will find what is right with American radio by listening to European programs.

English announcers are to pattern their pronunciation after that of Bernard Shaw. We have no corresponding famous symbol of wit and wisdom, unless you consider Will Rogers, to set a standard for announcers. And Will's southwest twang would let him out. . . . . The Tilden-Richards tennis match broadcast was a flop from the standpoint of human interest. . . . . Wonder if Coolidge tunes in regularly to Hoover's speeches. . . . . With the advent of radio, no President probably ever again will acquire a reputation as a strong, silent man. . . . . The broadcasters have yet to do right by pappy. The poor sap will have a long wait for justice.

Radio has brought untold wealth to hill-billy singers. It's really a case of "from rags to riches." . . . Wonder why Ruth Chatterton's voice and stage experience are not utilized more on the microphones? . . . Opera singers are sitting on the softest throne in the amusement kingdom. They are continuously in demand in radio. And the talkies, too, call often. And there is the concert platform just around the corner . . . Wonder if it's too late to start studying voice. Is there a fortune teller in the house?

Strange, the radio rajahs have not pounced upon George Ade and Ring Lardner for a series of broadcasts . . . Broadcasting enterprise has yet to present a laughing hyena to the loudspeakers . . . The trouble with most children's programs is that the sponsors play down to the children. At least that is what the children say . . . The favorite program with children is said to be Amos 'n' Andy. And Amos 'n' Andy make no effort to appeal to them . . . France is beginning to sift through the ether. But only her politicians. And it's her cabarets we want. Zose songs of ma cherie . . . The revival of poetry on the air got nowhere. The age is too jazzy for it.

Were we asked to name the type of music best calculated to halt the average bridge game we would select either Rudolph Ganz' piano playing of Lizst's Liebestraum" or Lew White's organ-playing of Schubert's "Ava Maria" . . . It is difficult to think of a greater aid to prohibition than a broadcast of the average drinking song . . . Wonder if Ed Wynn's stage chuckle would sound as funny on the air . . . Spies say the broadcasters are willing to pay Jolson his price if Jolson will submit his continuity to them. Can't imagine Jolson submitting continuity to anybody . . . I have always regretted that radio came too late for the silver tongue of William Jennings Bryan.

Next to a talk on the war by the woodchopper of Doorn nothing would so captivate the eardrums as a talk on law and order by Al Capone . . . . "Valencia" is now listed by the broadcasters as a ballad. By the same token, "Just Break the News to Mother" will probably be known as a Spanish fandango . . . An R. K. O. program was recently delayed for two minutes while Al Smith hunted for his glasses. Strangely, Al doesn't need glasses nor notes when he broadcasts . . . There seems to be no end of gypsy songs on the radio . . . Summer will really begin when Edwin Franko Goldman takes to the air.

on this matter of
TIRE COMPARISONS

WITH all the conflicting claims published about tires, it is obvious that misleading statements are being made. The only conclusion that you as a tire buyer can draw is that either we, as Firestone Dealers, are misrepresenting Firestone products, or that a certain mail order house is not telling the truth about theirs. Both can't be right — one or the other is misleading the public by their comparisons.

Firestone, in their advertising, only make comparisons that can be easily verified by the customer before buying tires. To attempt to substantiate the comparisons made by this mail order house, it would be necessary to go into a laboratory and employ experts.

The very reason that the comparisons made in Firestone advertising enable you to get the facts yourself, makes it unnecessary for Mr. Firestone to make affidavit on the truth of his statements or to file any complaint with the Federal Trade Commission, and then advertise it, in an attempt to lead the public to believe his statements were true.

Mr. Firestone doesn't ask you to accept comparisons about Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires until you see the facts yourself. Neither do we. All we ask is that you make your own comparison.

We have cross-sections cut from special brand mail order tires purchased from stocks of mail order house and Firestone Tires — no "tricky" or misleading comparisons—come in today and make your own comparisons for Quality, Construction, and Prices. YOU and YOU ALONE be the judge!

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Application was made at Harrisburg at noon today to incorporate the WCAE Broadcasting Company, which, it is understood, may soon operate as an independent unit. Directors named in the application are James Hammond, C. A. Marsh, Richard Blum, Louis Caplan and Jesse L. Kaufman, present manager of the station.

* * *

The savagely barbaric march from Borodin's "Prince Igor," which conjures a picture of menacing warriors marching to bloody conflict, provides a brilliant highlight in Howard Barlow's Symphony concert on WJAS at 9:30 tonight.

Ordinarily we don't say any more about electrical transcriptions than we have to, but Frazier Hunt's story of the "Lost Battalion" on WCAE at 7:30 stands out as something a little different.

A German hymn on Sacred Songs, Carol Deis in her American farewell, the WCAE String Trio, Irene Beasley, Armchair Quartet, Dr. Julius Klein in the city, Death Valley and Dream Pictures would rate more than mere mentions if we had the space.

Don't by any means overlook "Mati Hari, the Spy" (WCAE, 11), which tells the story of Mati Hari and her company of dancers who connived with German spies during the World War while ostensibly touring England and France. Mati Hari finally faced a French firing squad.

You've heard of Pat Flanagan, the Columbia sport announcer. His greatest piece of work was the beautiful eulogy at Knute Rockne's grave. Richy Craig has Pat as his guest (WJAS, 10:15). Richy says one of his questions will prove that Pat should be a very good friend of Prof. Einstein because very few people can understand either of them.

FINE TREATMENT

We're quite sure that there's one hospital in Pittsburgh where folks can have a "good time." We've never quite enjoyed ourselves at any party more than the WCAE frolic at the Tuberculosis League Hospital last night. Ford Miller as master of ceremonies was a fast moving hurricane.

Cliff Marshall, musical director of WCAE, and Frank Mulloy, publicity director, were swell as Miller's partners in crime.

* * *

Is it true that Elinor Smith, aviatrix and NBC announcer, is only 19?—L. W., South Side.

Answer — Elinor was born August 17, 1911, in New York City. Elinor has beacoup grit. This Sunday on WJZ at 9:15 she is to relate her experience about the plane that fell thousands of feet while she attempted to establish a new altitude record.

* * *

If the words used on a network radio station in a single week were laid end to end, they would reach all the way from where you are sitting to the dictionary and then back to the aspirin bottle—the total running past the 700,000 mark.

* * *

STUDIO LIGHTS:

Gus Van (WJZ, WENR, 7:15) has three cigars named after him but doesn't smoke . . .

Saturday night's "Show Boat" program is to be dedicated to WWVA, the new Columbia outlet in Wheeling, W. Va. . . .

Frank Knight is the latest to go haywire with Atwell-ism . . . . the other night, Frank was to say "Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'Lost Chord.'" His version was "Sir Arthur Cullivan's 'Lost Sword.'"

Sixty per cent of network artists live in New York City proper . . . . 35 per cent in its suburbs . . .

The networks are making eyes at O. O. McIntyre . . . . and the price is said to be $3,000 an appearance . . . .

"Colonel and Bud"—new on Columbia—WJAS this Sunday at 8:45 and daily except Friday thereafter—is CBS's bid for the Amos 'n' Andy audience . . . . an ad-libbing act . . . .

New York has discovered a new type "meanie" . . . a landlord who stipulates that prospective tenants must bring "neither cats, dogs nor radio receivers" . . .

Far at sea the Revelers heard a great concert last night, with Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray pinch-hitting for them on the Family Party . . .

Two good ones coming on KDKA . . . the English Derby on June 3 . . . and Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler on the eve of Bunker Hill Day, Tuesday, June 18, at 10:30 . . .

Baby Rose Marie, Dick Powell and Horace Heidt, the orchestra leader, are billed for KDKA this Friday at 6 o'clock . . .

How a heavy hitter gets that way . . . Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, at Thompkins Corners on Monday, June 8 . . .

"Isn't that Lawrence Tibbett?" whispered a downtown restaurant patron last night when Allen Thrasher, slim and dignified with the poise of blue-blood, sat down at a table to eat . . .Two hours later Tibbett was giving one of the greatest concerts of his career on the radio, which he has come to like and will patronize more frequently hereafter . . .

Graham McNamee's tonsils have cost him $10,000 in concert engagements so far this year.

Skeeters Deserting Us

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Either that or the skeet has left for other picnic frontiers where the customers are bigger and better.

We do know that when we go to the seashore now we do not have to spray ourselves with citronella and drape ourselves in skeet netting like a bride without the bouquet.

The Rockefeller Foundation helped plenty by pouring oil on the stagnant waters of the deltas and the evaporating reservoirs. You know that a skeet lays its eggs on the surface of sour ponds with swimming instructions written on the shells.

When the baby skitteroo hatches out he swims around drinking the oil. That supplies him with motive power to take off.

He announces his arrival with a zumming sound something like a wet banjo. And having selected his spot for geological survey he starts wildcatting. A skeet will bore any place and never seems to strike water.

This time he fills his reserve tanks with your life syrup and drums away purring the triumphant chant of the well-fed. We have never been able to decipher the odd antics of summer boarders but it must be an old superstition that makes people think they can cure a mosquito bite on the hip by slapping themselves on the ears.

With the skeets gone we are going to miss the veranda calisthenics which enlivened the long summer twilight and made each delightful dusk seem like a perforated year.

We were raised on verandas, apple butter and skeeter bites. Two of them didn't seem complete without the third. The apple butter and the skeeter snaps always seemed to be within reach of the workingman.

We are going to miss them even if science claims a victory over the malaria carrying postmen of the air.

And while the world and the summer may be better off without the skeeterix we know that it is going to be awfully lonely.

One boy was selected by the governor of each state to participate in the examination, the questions for which were prepared by Mr. Edison.

Women's Club at Odds Over Election

SCHOOL VISITORS INACTIVE IN 6 WARDS

UNFAIR TACTICS CHARGED BY CANDIDATE

Letter Signed by Eight of Nominating Group Stirs Those Favoring Mrs. Miller

A letter sent out and personally signed by eight of the 11 members of the nominating committee of the Congress of Clubs has stirred the indignation of the faction campaigning for the presidency of Mrs. D. Edwin Miller against the nominating committee's candidate, Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, and may be taken as indicative of the temperature of Congress affairs at present.

ONLY ONE BALLOT

The letter, which is signed by Mrs. Florence D. Kinney, chairman of the committee; Mrs. Erwin Sohn, Mrs. J. H. Lesley, Mrs. Mary S. Murphy, Mrs. William H. Packer, Mrs. Paul Diffenbacher, Mrs. Carl J. Proessler and Mrs. John H. Bricker, states that but one ballot was taken for president, that six members voted for "the candidate, Mrs. T. M. Stahlman" and that no vote was cast for Mrs. Miller.

The letter recites the part both Mrs. Stahlman and Mrs. Miller have taken in Congress activities to the disparagment of Mrs. Miller.

Asked for comment on the letter, Mrs. Miller today said that because of the fact that all through the nominating committee's voting there had been a majority of only one for her opponent, her friends had persuaded here to take the field.

Her name had been placed in nomination, she said, but the committee being unable to agree, a harmony candidate was proposed and received five of the 11 votes on the one ballot taken.

STATEMENT MADE

Mrs. Miller said:

"While Mrs. Stahlman was a charter member, she has been active in Congress affairs for only four years, as the records will show. I was elected to the board of directors for two years, but because of a ruling, could not hold both that office and the office of first vice president, to which I was later elected, and when, still later, a new ruling was made that no officer could be a department chairman, I chose to retain my chairmanship of the department of education, because I felt therein lay my greatest field of service to the Congress.

Although I have been a member of the Congress for only six years, I have been actively interested in its work since 1911, when I was a member of Dr. Amelia Dranga's scholarship committee and it was under the department of education and my direction that the parliamentary law classes were organized and continued with success until they were removed from the department two years ago."

HEALTH DRIVE SUPPORTED BY CITY HEADS

Sun-Telegraph's Campaign For Cleanup Aided by Maits, Clark and Ley

The City Department of Health will co-operate to the fullest extent with the campaign of the Sun-Telegraph for a cleaner and more beautiful city, according to Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the department.

Several streets and alleys where a Sun-Telegraph photographer found accumulations of rubbish and garbage will be given immediate attention. Dr. Maits expressed pleasure at the action of Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, and H. L. Ley, of the Bureau of Building Inspection, in their movement to tear down dangerous and dilapidated buildings.

MENACE TO HEALTH

Such old houses are a health problem as well as a hazard in the neighborhood, Dr. Maits declared. The department has many difficulties to overcome, and it is not so much the effort required to clean up a district as that in getting the residents to keep it clean that counts, he said.

The city has 36 sanitation inspectors, including three supervisors. Charles Parkinson, superintendent of the Bureau of Sanitation, has instructed his men to use special diligence in checking on conditions in their districts.

Where rubbish is allowed to accumulate on private property, the sanitation inspectors are empowered to warn the owners and to make informations. Dr. Maits said that his department has had a number of owners fined and that drastic steps will be taken if necessary to keep properties clean.

COKE WAY PROBLEM

Coke way, six-foot alley in the rear of Crawford street, Third Ward, pictured recently in the Sun-Telegraph, has been a nightmare for the department for years. According to officials, it may be thoroughly cleansed and within an hour be littered with a variety of garbage thrown from the windows of the tenements which flank it.

A mayor of Pittsburgh once went to Coke way to see conditions for himself. A bundle of refuse hurled from a third-story window narrowly missed the city's chief executive. This occurred a number of years ago and through several administrations health officials have been fighting to keep Coke way in sanitary condition.

ROLLING WHEEL PERILS AUTOS

After bounding back and forth on the boulevard, it went over a guard rail and toppled onto the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, 150 feet below.

No one was hurt, and the only damage was a bent fender to a passing automobile.

The accident, occurring east of the Seventeenth street incline, was caused when an axle broke on a truck of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. William Muchmeck, of Crafton, was the driver.

SAVING SOUGHT ON PAVING

A change in the method used in paying blockstone pavers, which he said would save the city at least 50 per cent in wages, was sought by Charles M. Reppert, engineer of the City Department of Public Works, today in legislation presented to Council.

Reppert said the pavers have been paid on the "per hour" basis. He asked permission of Council to advertise for future work of this class on a square yard basis.

U. S. Jails 2 Men On Auto Charges

William L. Heater, 27, of San Antonio, Tex., was sentenced by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve two years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta for transporting a stolen automobile from San Antonio to Erie, Pa. Arthur Kreller, 21, was sentenced to serve three years in the United States Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., when he pleaded guilty of transporting a stolen automobile from Cleveland, O., to Bedford.

Test Bureau Chief May Attend Meet

City Council has been asked to allow J. J. Paine, chief of the Bureau of Tests, to attend the annual convention of the American Society for Testing Materials, to be held soon in Chicago. While in Chicago, Paine would study methods used by that municipality in core boring on street and sidewalk improvements, a communication from the Public Works Department said.

Two Men Arrested With Furs in Auto

Emanuel Klein, 38, of 2363 Valentine avenue, New York, and Samuel Rein, 32, of 1700 Crotona Park, New York, were arrested in Smithfield street early today for questioning. Patrolman John McClelland said the men had 11 fur pieces in their automobile. A description of them had been broadcast earlier by the police teletype asking that they be investigated for the York, Pa., authorities.

Traffic Detoured By Boulevard Speeded

Downtown traffic, rerouted on account of the construction of the Horace street ramp to the Boulevard of the Allies, moved with its accustomed speed today, except in one instance.

At Sixth avenue and Forbes street traffic was delayed due to the detour from the boulevard.

Four policemen at each end of the Liberty Tubes accelerated the procession of autos. On the ramp from Sixth avenue to Liberty Bridge traffic was delayed and cars were lined up as far as the ramp leading from the bridge.

THREE ELECTED BOARDS NEVER ORGANIZED

Pupils Miss Valuable Aid Given by Alert Groups in Other Parts of District

Examination of the records of the Board of Education today showed that six boards of school visitors have failed to organize, as required by law, this year. Of the six, half never have organized.

Boards of school visitors are composed of seven persons elected for a four-year term. Each ward elects a board. Their duties are to visit schools in the wards they represent at least once every three months, to recommend to the Board of Education needed improvements in equipment, efficiency and other details and to recommend suitable men for appointment as janitors of elementary schools.

REQUIRED BY LAW

A state law creating these boards provides that they shall meet and organize on the first Monday of January each year. According to the law, a president and secretary must be appointed at the meeting; meetings must be held at least once each three months, the schools must be visited and recommendations must be made in writing to the Board of Education.

Members of the school visitor boards serve without pay, although their secretaries receive a maximum of $25 yearly.

Boards in a few Pittsburgh wards are active and alert for betterment of the schools. Most, it was learned today, are comparatively inactive, many not even making their required visit.

CO-OPERATION PRAISED

Boards in the Fourth, Ninth and Twenty-ninth wards never have organized, it was learned today. In the First Ward, last organization was in 1925; in the Sixth, 1922; in the Twenty-second, 1930.

Officials at the Board of Education today praised the work of active Boards of School Visitors, said they often detected faults in the system which could easily be remedied.

Word has been received here of the death of Lieut. Royal B. Lea, 36, United States army aviator who was the first commander at Rodgers Field. Lieut. Lea died Sunday at Kelly Field, Texas, to which he was transferred in 1926, after having been in charge of the local airport four years.

While stationed at Rodgers Field he was commander of the Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth Reserve Squadron. He was an honorary member of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh.

Avery Shrinks From Baring His Hopes and Dreams To His Father

By Fannie Hurst

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

John G. Rarick has made millions as a chain store operator. His wife, Jenny, shortly after their marriage, lent him $2,500, all she had, when he was near failure, and out of this money he built riches. Rarick buys a magnificent home, but secretly finds himself hating his wife. This is accentuated by his own temperamental inability to get close to Jennifer and Avery, his children. Rarick installs an odd genius, Dr. Felix Gerkes, in his house. Jenny objects and a bitter scene follows in which Rarick delivers the ultimatum that Gerkes remain. He sends for Jennifer and compels her to cancel a dinner engagement to dine with Gerkes. Jennifer finds him interesting. Jenny begins to be intrigued with Ramon, a youthful gigolo. Avery comes home from school to beg his mother to help him get leave from his father to have a couple of years to himself.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI.

"Mother dear, you mustn't take it that way! Let me explain."

Ramon was waiting.

"Listen, dear, I must—"

"Mother, I haven't hopped on to this decision today or yesterday. I'm everybody's total-loss at college, dear."

"That's a pretty disheartening thing to have to hear, after the long wrangle I had with your father, who wanted a state university. Really, Avery—"

"I'd be no go at college, mother. It's hard as the devil to try to explain—even to you."

"Yes, Avery," she said, mashing out a cigaret off which she had taken two puffs, and trying to bite down an impatience that was almost a frenzy within her; "I should think it might be." Ramon was waiting.

"Mother, what do you think?"

"I can't. I don't," she said, and pressed her eyeballs.

"Mother, for the last six months I've been carrying only one course at college. You might as well know and have it over with."

"You've made excellent connections. Donnie Chattenfield told Jennifer that Hal is inviting you to Whitecastle for the Christmas holidays."

"Mother, doesn't that surprise you?"

"Why should it? The Chattenfields weren't always as socially secure as they are now. I—"

"I mean, doesn't it surprise you that I've only carried one course, and that a dead-cat one in current events?"

"Of course it does—"

"It doesn't really, old darling, because you've never thought about it one way or another. But anyway—even my address at college has been a fake one, mother. I've faked."

"Avery!"

"I haven't lived on the campus for six months. The college canning-factory began to tin my brains, so I moved

Police Speed Boat Requested by Clark

An increase to the Police Department's river fleet would be provided by legislation given Council by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

At the meeting yesterday Clark asked permission to advertise for a motor boat to cost $2,600. The craft would be used for patrol purposes on the three rivers here. Specifications call for an all-steel structure, capable of developing a cruising speed of at least 35 miles per hour.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

When I came through North Carolina the other day, they were trying every means known to devilment and science to get their Legislature to resign. Well, California's finally exhausted. Thirty-five hundred bills were introduced—1,450 unsuccessfully. Now no state can possibly have that many things wrong with it. And of course they turned down the only modern, up-to-date and sensible one of the whole 3,500. It would have gotten the state more favorable comment than all the others put together. That was to get Gov. Rolph an airplane. In a big state like this how do they expect him to get around on a bicycle?

Yours, WILL.

CITY FOOD RECORDS RETURNED TO KERR BY AUDITORS

FIRST REPORT EXPECTED IN FEW DAYS

Controller Awaits Findings Of Accountants Employed By Him to Scan Figures

Records of the Department of Supplies which have figured in the dual audit of that bureau were returned yesterday to the office of Controller James P. Kerr.

With the report of Price, Waterhouse & Co., auditors for the city, nearly completed, Controller Kerr expects to have the document in his hands by the end of the week. It is expected to be presented to Council next week.

While waiting for the reports, Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin, assigned by District Attorney Andrew T. Park to inspect the document, is studying the law on malfeasance and impeachment.

The report for the Citizens' Committee on the audit and investigation, made by Main & Co., will not be submitted for about two weeks.

The report of Price, Waterhouse & Co., will point out the ordinances under which certain purchases were made, having been advised by counsel in that respect, but will not attempt to enter into the question of the legality.

Data requested by the committee of engineers investigating the Department of Public Works is being compiled by City Engineer Charles M. Reppert and may be ready for the committee today. The data will relate to engineering questions and contracts.

Succop and Kerr Chat, Shun Topic of Food Audit

After a short conference, Kerr said:

"Mr. Succop just came in to pay his respects. His presence had nothing to do with the audit. We chatted over inconsequential things."

Emerging, Succop said:

"Dr. Kerr and I just chatted."

Succop would not comment on the dual audit being conducted by Kerr and the Citizens' Committee.

HARDWARE MEN OPEN MEET

The businessman who expects to keep up with the modern trend of industry must do a lot better thinking than the businessman of 15 years ago, according to Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce. He made this statement to delegates to the twenty-second annual convention of the American Steel and Heavy Hardware Association at the William Penn Hotel yesterday.

The most essential fact to be sought now by the distributor, in Dr. Surface's opinion, is the cost of handling commodities. He would set up a cost accounting system for this phase of business similar to that in use in the production field.

Speakers on today's program were to be G. F. Ahlbrandt, general manager of sales, American Rolling Mill Company, Middletown, O.; A. A. Ziegler, of Philadelphia; Chapin E. Harris, of Boston, and Dennis A. Merriman, of Chicago.

AWAIT RETURN OF SUSPECTS

Pittsburgh detectives today were awaiting official word from New York authorizing them to bring James Foley, Barney Nienfeld and Robert Maple, of New York, here for trial in connection with the $52,000 Manchester Savings and Trust Company robbery.

And while they waited, the detectives were wondering why Pittsburgh was given custody, by extradition, of three members of the alleged bank bandit gang for trial, instead of the other two, Joseph Flynn and Sam Ruben, who were identified by bank employes as two of the men who took part in the robbery.

The men New York authorities were reported to have decided to turn over to Pittsburgh were only tentatively identified.

The decision of the New York authorities came as a result of a three-cornered battle waged by Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York for the right to try the men first.

STOWITTS ART PERPETUATES OLD INDIA

150 Paintings on Exhibition At Carnegie Institute Show Culture of People

By PENELOPE REDD

"Vanishing India" will not vanish so long as Stowitt's 150 paintings exist. Now they may be seen, through June 7, at Carnegie Institute.

There is none of the Kipling attitude of tolerance as echoed in "Gunga Din."

There is much of the enticement that was loosed on the western world by Diaghieff's ballet, "Scherhazade."

Stowitts' encyclopedic enthusiasm has selected characters that might be immediately transposed into the eloquence of that ballet.

Penelope Redd

His intuitive response to the peoples of India made for a psychic capacity to accomplish an extraordinary amount of work with sensitive celerity.

This is the more apparent because of a group of paintings done in Italy which are also hung at Carnegie Institute.

These Italians might have wandered from the precious pages of Thornton Wilder's "Caballa." They are obviously impressive people but aroused no quickening response in Stowitts.

India, on the contrary, which would seem infinitely more exotic than Italy to a young American, proved to be a land of atavistic return for Stowitts.

SEES INDIVIDUALS

He has been India's myriads not as grains of dust, but as individuals illustrating the mores of a culture which Stowitts regards with nostalgia and records with a rhythm that informs the canvases with the breath of life.

The characters range from sweepers utterly outcast to the completely exquisite maiden, Surovi Chatterji, from the oldest of Brahman families in Bengal.

Purists in pictorial expression may belittle Stowitts, but at least he has valiantly defended the rare quality of delighted wonder.

FUNERAL COST ASKED OF CITY

Funeral expenses totaling $544 were asked of Council by the widow of John Galab, who died in St. Francis Hospital last February, after being incarcerated overnight in No. 5 Police Station.

A coroner's inquest gave a verdict of death from hemorrhages and a fractured skull. Galab was arrested in a Butler street garage, taken to the police station and charged with being intoxicated. His condition became critical and he was removed to the hospital where he died a few hours later.

Assistant Solicitor Oscar T. Taylor said that the city was not liable for negligence of its police officers.

RED CROSS WAR VETS TO DINE

War days will live again when Red Cross war workers of the Pittsburgh district gather to renew old associations and memories at the Red Cross dinner in the Hotel Schenley Thursday at 6:30 p. m.

This dinner marks the fiftieth anniversary of the American Red Cross, which will be celebrated all over the United States in similar fashion, the central event being a dinner at Washington, at which Chief Justice Hughes will be toastmaster and President Hoover the principal speaker. The program of this gathering will be broadcast on a national radio hookup, and other chapters holding local dinners at the same hour will listen in.

Since it is impossible to contact all those who served the local Red Cross during the war, the chairman is asking these workers to communicate with their former chairmen or with headquarters, 402 Chamber of Commerce Building, for details concerning the dinner.

PAIR IN STOLEN AUTO ESCAPE BULLETS

Abandon Machine When Tire Blows Out After Chase Under Fire of Sleuths

Search was being made by police and detectives today for two young men who abandoned a stolen automobile after a two-mile chase during which more than a dozen shots were fired by detectives last night.

Driving through Riverview Park in a radio cruise, Detectives James Swearingen and Joseph Leith saw the two men driving in the opposite direction in a stolen automobile. The pair raced the car through the park when the detectives turned to give chase.

Swearingen and Leith opened fire on the car as it tore into the Brighton road district at a 60-mile an hour clip. Speeding through Pemberton avenue, which is under repairs, one of the tires on the stolen machine blew out. The car was abandoned in front of the home of Miss Etta G. Cunningham, 3843 Hiawatha street, and the pair fled on foot.

Detectives said the automobile, owned by C. J. Ramsburg, of East drive, Sewickley, was stolen yesterday from in front of the Children's Hospital.

SHIPPERS DELAY WHARF PLANS

Improvement of the city's wharves is being held up until city engineers can reach an agreement with navigation interests regarding the plans.

City Council has expressed willingness to provide funds for the wharf development. City engineers have drawn plans which call for an eight-foot cut at the Water street side of the Monongahela Wharf and an eight-foot fill to within 40 feet of the present water line creating a slope of 4 per cent against the present 15 per cent grade.

Towboat interests, including the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange and the Pittsburgh Coal Company, have protested the plan for the reason that it would make it virtually impossible to dock river steamers at that part of the wharf in certain stages of high water. Engineers are attempting to work out a compromise plan.

Gladys George Bathes Audience in Tears As 'Coquette'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

To be light-hearted without being silly and to be emotional without being maudlin are among the most difficult things in the actor's art, and last night Gladys George achieved both in "Coquette," presented by George Sharp's Players at the Alvin. As their season is drawing to a close the company shows no let-up in its sincerity and demonstrates its versatility by one of the most serious presentations of the entire year. For this drama by George Abbott and Ann Preston Bridgers is as close to tragedy as "Hamlet," though some of the incidental characters afford a comedy relief like Polonius and the Grave-Diggers. Certainly a play that has a murder in one act and a suicide in another is not making any concessions to the happy-enders who want to go home with a good taste in their mouths.

George Seibel

"Coquette" is a bitter chunk of life without the sugar-coating of happy lies. It comes very close to being a very great play—and Miss George, in the role created by Helen Hayes, comes very close to being a great actress.

Perhaps the severest test is that scene on the sofa where she confesses her fault to Stanley, and he says: "Norma, would you do me the very great honor to marry me?"

Miss George played this scene without the slightest bit of strain or artifice, and Robert Fiske, who acted Stanley in his usual sincere style, did not convey the least impression of an attitude.

From that point onward there were few handkerchiefs in the audience that were not doing full duty. If you haven't had a good cry for some time, this is your chance.

CHIVALRY AND YOUTH

The drama presents the conflict between the chivalry of the old South and the romantic revolt of modern youth. Norma is the daughter of the stern old doctor who avenges the honor of his family with a smoking pistol. But he does not realize that he is destroying the life and the love of his child.

It is the complex character of Norma that is the real backbone of the drama. This delicious little liar who lies without knowing she's a liar, and yet does not forfeit the sympathy of the audience, goes into death as smilingly and gracefully as she avows her love.

That final climax, by the way, is the finest cumulative dramatic curtain I recall in the plays of recent years. It was played so tensely last night that the audience lingered for several minutes after the close, too deeply moved to move.

And this triumph belonged mainly to Miss George, though valiant and honest work was done by every member of the cast. Paul McGrath, as the lover, played his grueling scene in the second act with tremendous power, and the contrition of his earlier entrance was a touching bit of naturalness. Fred Sullivan avoided the extreme of repellent sternness as the father, and Hugh Banks made the best of his happy opportunity as the brother. There was also some pretty comedy by Tass Collins as the angular Betty Lee.

NEXT WEEK'S FAREWELL

After such a notable and noble effort by the company, it is particularly regrettable that they will be here only one more week. The closing date has been set for Saturday night, May 30. To have run for 39 continuous weeks in one of the most depressing seasons, shows what a firm hold the company has upon the hearts of Pittsburgh playgoers.

Very few companies could stand the test this company has stood—to present powerful emotional drama as they are doing this week and light farce, as they will do next week, with Mabel Kroman back in "She Couldn't Say No." It is to be hoped that Pittsburghers will show their appreciation by making these two weeks as memorable for crowded houses as the current week is for good acting.

Settlement Tonight Offers Three Plays

In the Theresa L. Kaufmann Theater tonight, the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players will present an evening of one-act plays by Pittsburgh authors. They are George Seibel's "The Angel of the Lord," George M. P. Baird's "The Waiting Room" and Robert E. Wood's comedy, "The Pleasure Hunt." These plays have never been produced before.

Joan Crawford Scheduled To Do Modern Version Of 'The Mirage'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, May 19.

Next in line for Joan Crawford will be a talkie version of Edward Knoblock's play, "The Mirage."

Considerable modernization will have to be done, as the play is a number of years old.

In the meantime, Joan is trying to be philosophical about the delay of her European trip. After seeing the preview of "This Modern World," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials decided to make additional scenes. It will take three weeks or more to do this. There is a very good chance that Joan and Doug, Jr., may not get the trip at all. Fortunately, she is smart enough to realize that a good picture is much more important than a vacation.

Joan Crawford

Joan takes her career very seriously, and her attitude is showing results.

LATEST GOSSIP

Fashion heretics may take comfort in the fact that Pola Negri has worn the same style of hat for 10 years—a closely wound turban . . . Marlene Dietrich has taken Charlie (Black Crow) Mack's house in Beverly Hills . . . James Crane, former Broadway actor, had an annoying experience this week. A local cinema palace forgot to put his name on the cast sheet of "Dude Ranch" and every newspaper critic mistook him for William Boyd. It was his screen comeback, too . . . George Arthur is my authority that Karl Dane now talks with a broad British accent . . . Fay Wray has gone blonde for the Ronald Colman picture . . . Wesley Ruggles is wondering if he escaped a new kind of badger game. While walking on the beach, he was approached by a pretty girl in a bathing suit. She introduced herself and said she didn't know anybody here so she thought she would come down and see him. She invited herself to come in his house, but Wesley politely declined. He's still wondering what it was all about . . . Henry Hobart has turned in his resignation as associate producer at R-K-O. He has made 14 pictures in 15 months and declares he needs a rest . . . And Polly Moran tells me she has a nice new red rocker on her front porch for the bill collectors.

The administration amendments to the motor vehicle code, and the Buckman bill requiring motorists to hold automobile insurance if they cannot prove personal financial responsibility, came from committee and will be before the Senate for final action tomorrow.

Other bills pending final Senate action today include the Witkin bill to regulate and license revolvers and sawed-off shotguns.

"She Couldn't Say No," comedy, will be presented by George Sharp in the Alvin next week with Muriel Kroman returning to the company after an absence of two months. She will play Gwyneth and we are sure her portrayal will leave no room for wisecracks about it being a half-Portia.

Small Timer sagely remarks that it is indeed true that too many cooks spoil the broth—adding "far too many."

Marion Davies comes to the Aldine screen Friday in a photoplay version of the stage comedy, "It's A Wise Child," a merry story of a girl who adopts a daring method of ridding herself of her fiance when she finds she loves another.

The "straight man" of the comedy team says he expects to sacrifice half his freedom when he gets married, and the little guy who supplies the gags tells him he is an optimist.

Great Writers See Life As It Really Is

Are you "just crazy to write?" Longing to spend your days thinking up thrilling plots—weaving them into jewelled nets of words?

And are you wondering how you'll go about it?

"Dear Sally:

"I'm a girl of 20, and I should be able to make up my mind, but I just can't seem to do it. I am a beginner in the field of short-story writing, and expect some day to be a novelist. Now this is my problem.

"I can either continue as I now am, selling an occasional story, until I've had more experience in writing (and with life) which should enable me to be a successful writer. Or, I can enter college where, in four years, I would learn everything I should know to be a successful writer.

"Which of these would be the most helpful to me?

"I would have to work my way through college, but I'd be willing . . . glad . . . to do that, if four years there would help me more than four years in the outside world.

An Important Question

"Please help me. I would be happy to have your opinion on this, because I think you're sensible, and will tell me the truth. Which shall it be?

"MARGARET."

Which shall it be? Before we decide, let's take a square look at this ambition of yours, Margaret. You say you want to write.

Why do you want to write? No, that isn't a foolish question . . . it is a most important question, for it will decide your whole career.

Do you want to write because you think it is a thrilling profession? Do you believe that writers live in a fascinating, exciting atmosphere—utterly removed from the monotony, boredom, drudgery and dreary discipline which stenographers, school teachers and shop girls must endure? And you have a sneaking idea that writing is an easy job?

Thousands of girls do want to write for those very reasons. They see themselves gliding around in arty costumes, being interviewed, languidly acknowledging the applause of the multitude. If those are your reasons, Margaret . . . If that's your vision . . . then take a tip from a veteran, youngster, and don't try to write. For neither your dream nor your writing will amount to shucks.

Face Hardships

That isn't the way real writers function, and that isn't how or why real writing is done. Real writers write because they must. Something in them insists upon expression. They can no more help writing than a baby can help having prickly heat on a hot day. Indeed, writing is a sort of prickly heat of the soul.

People who really love writing for writing's sake are not thinking of the thrills—for there are none. They're not looking for an easy job . . . for writing is the hardest job on earth. They're willing to face monotony, obscurity, disappointment, drudgery and never-ending discipline, to tell the truth as they see it—and believe me, kid, they get the works.

If that's your urge, Margaret—and if you're willing to pay that price for it, then it is superfluous for me to advise you to write, for you can't help yourself.

But now let's tackle that next delusion of yours. Neither four nor 40 nor 400 years at college can "teach you everything you need to know to be a successful writer." It can't even teach you the mechanics of writing—for great writing has no mechanics. College can simply teach you a few useful facts. The great majority of writers have had no college education.

Must See Life

Indeed, writing itself cannot be taught because writing must come from something within . . . it is an expression of our own particular picture of life.

And few of us ever see life. We go through our days seeing only ourselves—our immediate families—and we have nothing great or unique or interesting to pass on to others. So, no matter how we "long to be writers" we cannot succeed. But others do climb out of themselves and see life. And they can learn to be writers, providing they have clear eyes to see things as they are, and not according to some notion or prejudice of their own; sensitive hearts that will respond to the drama that is going on around them constantly, and healthy brains that have a knack for catching sights, sounds and tastes and recording them . . . brains alert for new ideas and experiences . . . and imaginations that are able to see beyond their own narrow lives, and actually live in other lives, other environments.

College Might Help

No college can teach us these things. But the fine, courageous experience of working your own way through college might deepen and strengthen your awareness of life . . . and help you to push on ahead of real success. It might well broaden your sympathies, and bring you nearer to understanding the struggles and longings of the lives that quicken all writing . . . and are touched by it.

It might help you to have something to write about, something that will interest others as well as yourself, something that will lift them beyond their own narrow horizons and make them laugh, or cry, or wonder, or think.

And so—if you can—go ahead, and get your college education . . . but don't expect miracles from it, because they won't materialize.

Writing, after all, is the stuff of life itself, my dear, and only by meeting and living with life can we learn to write greatly.

'Get Your Man' Still the Slogan of Ambitious Women, Says Fay King

WHEN MARRIAGE WAS A WOMAN'S ONLY CAREER, AMBITIOUS GIRLS MADE IT A POINT TO MARRY THE MAN WITH THE MOST MONEY AND BEST SOCIAL BACKGROUND
NOW, THE AMBITIOUS GIRLS MAKE IT A POINT TO LAND THE MAN WHO CAN HELP THEM IN OTHER CAREERS
IF I CAN GET HIM TO FALL FOR ME, I'LL BE AS FAMOUS AS ANY OF THEM!
FAY

By FAY KING

Despite all the so-called independent careers now open to women, the methods of the ambitious ones have not changed much.

Their slogan is still—get your man!

When marriage was woman's only career the ambitious girls met and married the best catches, thereby getting homes and social position more quickly than the girls who followed their hearts and not their heads.

And so in the many new careers we still see the most ambitious girls figuring out that the quickest and surest way to fame and fortune is to gain the personal interest and influences, of the man in power to promote their careers.

Merit alone can and has succeeded. And its success is more sure and lasting, but never so quick and glamorous.

Madge Realizes Position of Junior

There was such boyish disgust in Junior's face as he referred to Ronald as "that sap," and asked if Marion had to "go back with him yet," that Marion caught her breath in astonishment, and I rapped out a reproving "Junior, what do you mean by speaking in that way of anybody? I'm waiting to hear what else you have to say."

Junior gulped and swallowed, patently realizing that, unconsciously he had put into words a thought he had not meant to voice so strenuously before Marion.

"I'm awful sorry, Marion," he said humbly. "I didn't mean to call him that. He isn't, of course. But he's always around," his aggrieved voice strayed off in silence, and I cast an appealing glance at Marion, wondering if the young girl's intuition would supply her lack of experience and enable her to read with charity my little son's absurd jealousy of Ronald.

I need not have worried. I told myself, whimsically, a second later. Marion is a true daughter of Eve, and also inherits her mother's clarity of insight, and her ready tact in dealing with situations of great delicacy.

"That's all right, Junior," she assured him. "I know you didn't mean to call Ronald that. But I can see that it does look as if he were taking up more of my time than he ought. You see he's my roomie's brother, and a guest, and I have to be nice to him just as you are nice to Roderick. But, you know, that whenever you want me to play with you, I'll leave everybody else. You come first."

"Aw, gee!" Junior said with a gulp, and his face was radiant as Marion caught his hand, when he had kissed his grandfather goodnight, and started toward the stairs with him. I followed with Roderick, and Marion and I waited with Katherine in her room while Junior and Roderick promptly and noisily undressed in the big room, which is playroom and bedroom combined for him. Then they scampered through the door to me, and kneeling, one on either side, said their prayers in the gabbling rush common to most children when they are excited.

"There!" Junior said triumphantly, springing up when he had finished, and he might as well have added "That's over." But, wisely, I took no notice of his manner, obeyed him, and, with Marion, as he said imperatively: "Now come and tuck us up!"

My mental thermometer shot downward as I caught the look on Katherine's face, which even her professional training could not control for the fraction of a second succeeding Junior's summons. She had cared for Junior for many months, and for long periods I had been absent from him, and she had tucked him into bed every night of my absences, yet he appeared to have totally forgotten her on this Christmas Eve.

Knowing Katherine's tragedy, the thwarted motherhood which was hers, and the unhappiness of her married life, I knew that this neglect of her small charge would bring a pang the more poignant because it was Christmas Eve. Yet I dared say nothing to Junior, for I knew how fiercely she would resent any reminder to the child.

But, as he reached the door, he twisted around, and I saw an astonished, disappointed look cross his face.

"Aunt Katherine!" he called. "Aren't you coming to tuck me up, too?"

"I didn't think you'd need me tonight, Junior," she said, but she crossed the room swiftly, and the smile on her face as she patted his head told me that the little boy's wish for her had somewhat eased the heartache which I knew was hers at this Christmas time.

We tucked them in and kissed them good-night, and they snuggled down into their pillows with one last pleading request:

"Please wake us before it gets daylight; please, Aunt Katherine?"

"I promise," Katherine answered, adding when she was safely in the other room with the door closed that the light might not hinder their going to sleep.

"That's a safe promise. They'll waken me a good hour before daylight, and I'll have to keep them quiet."

"Call me," I said "and I'll put them into their heavy bathrobes, thick stockings and slippers and, take them to the library. Then they can bring their filled stockings up here, and sit up in bed until it's time to get dressed."

"The time-honored ruse," Katherine smiled. "I wonder how many mothers are using it tonight."

"You couldn't count them, probably," I returned. "You'll come down as soon as they're asleep."

I made the words an assertion, instead of a question, but Katherine shook her head.

"Please, Madge," she said, "I shall be all right tomorrow, for there'll be plenty to do in engineering that Christmas surprise." She lowered her voice to a whisper, with an apprehensive glance toward the closed door. "But tonight, I—I just can't. The only way I can keep from thinking is to read. I've got a most exciting mystery novel, and when the youngsters are safely asleep, I'm going to crawl into bed and read until I fall asleep."

Household Hints

When slicing butter, if milk shows in tiny bubbles, use the butter as quickly as possible, for this means the butter has been poorly washed and will turn rancid quickly.

When buying enamelware inquire as to the number of coats. The best variety of white enamelware has more coats. The cheaper ware has only one additional coat and, therefore, chips readily.

If the potatoes you bought for winter are not quite used up, add a slice of lemon to the water in which they are boiled. It will prevent them from discoloring and give them a better taste.

How to Keep Well

New Ideas in War on All Disease

There was leprosy in Egypt three or four thousand years before the beginning of the Christian era. A study of early leprosy appears to confine it to Egypt, the Orient and India. In the eleventh and twelfth centuries the disease spread all over Europe. This was attributed to the returning Crusaders.

Dr. Copeland

Leprosy is rarely found in this country, but sufficiently to warrant knowing about it. It is called by the doctors a chronic infectious disease, caused by a specific germ.

It attacks particularly the skin and the nervous system. There may be thickening, ulceration, or numbness of the skin. Ulceration and actual gangrene are common effects.

Since the disease is a constitutional one, it may affect any organ or tissue of the body. It runs a slowly progressive course.

For many centuries leprosy was believed to be caused by an evil spirit. It was greatly feared. All countries adopted measures for the control of the disease. Since little was known concerning the actual cause, its victims were outcasts, living in leper colonies.

In 1871, a scientist, Dr. Hansen, described what he named "bacillus leprae." This agent is now universally accepted as the cause of the disease. Leprosy results from inoculation with this germ.

Such factors as heredity, climate and mode of living, as well as occupation, are important in considering the development of this condition. But without the specific germ there can be no leprosy.

While it might possibly be transmitted by casual contact from one individual to another, this is rarely the way it is acquired. Nevertheless, all precautions are taken against this possibility. It is for this reason that lepers, in certain stages of the disease, are not allowed to remain at home.

Great strides have been made in the prevention and cure of this terrible malady. There still remains a great deal to be learned.

At present, a study of the value of Chaulmoogra oil is being made. This oil appears to have been used successfully in many cases of leprosy and may ultimately prove of untold value. Its true worth is not yet determined.

Correct Manners

Both Proper and Convenient

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

An organization of which I am a member is having a dinner dance at a local night club. The organization is composed of young men. The table will be set in banquet style. Each member will escort a young lady.

1. Would it be proper to have place cards?

2. If so, should a card also be placed for the young lady? The names of the ladies are available.

1. Yes, it would be both proper and very convenient.

2. Yes. Each guest would have a place card. The place cards should be simple ones, plain white. You can buy these at any stationer's.

Use of the Fork and Spoon

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would appreciate your advice on the following:

2—Should a private chauffeur be thanked for taking a person home?

3—Should a father be congratulated when his daughter marries?

4—Should a cocktail fork always be left on the plate holding the ice bowl?

PATSY.

1—Yes, this is the polite and gracious thing to do.

2—Yes.

3—Yes.

4—Yes.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is satisfying to be reedy, but that doesn't mean that the female form divine should not have a normal bust and a pretty curve from waist to thighs. The fashionable figure is one of normal proportions. Doesn't matter whether it is short or tall, if lines are graceful and carriage is good. Only the overplump need live on lettuce leaves and bird seeds.

A few drops of simple tincture of benzoin added to the tepid rinsing water after the bath will help correct excessive oiliness of the complexion. Be sure to ask the druggist for the simple tincture. There is a compound tincture that is heavier, not so satisfactory. Cut down on fatty foods and rich pastries, stoke up on green vegetables.

Soak brittle finger nails in olive oil at night. If it is warm, so much the better. The effect is good on the cuticle about the nails, which is always dry and hangnail-ish when the nails themselves crack and split. Cold cream can be used, if one wishes. Vaseline or mineral oil will serve. Finger nails aren't particular what they get.

Castoria . . . for CHILDREN'S ailments

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or for the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish spell, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the formula on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

BRAME GIVES DEFEAT SILVER LINING

THEY PICKED OUT a tough spot for Ervin Brame's pitching debut of 1931, for as the adverse fates willed it a slab exhibition by the big Kentuckian good enough to bring victory on nine out of 10 occasions didn't serve to save the Pirates from defeat in the final game of the Boston series. It was unfortunate that just at a time when he required perfect backing up to enable him to hold his own with the most successful pitcher of the year, Brame's support should wobble sufficiently to set his splendid hurling at naught and give the sensational Ed Brandt the edge needed to land the decision over him.

Ervin Brame

But Brame's pitching gave the cloud of defeat a silver lining. That kind of mound work will not often fail to win, and it means a bolstering of the pitching department and a brightening of the Pirate future to have the strong righthander in shape to take his regular turn on the mound hereafter.

IN DEFEATING THE Buccaneers, Southpaw Brandt added another chapter to the outstanding pitching record of the spring. He is leading both loops with six straight victories and not a defeat. Rube Walberg has won six, but has lost one.

Brandt has gone the full distance of nine innings in every one of his six starts, and in his six complete games he has allowed a total of only 15 runs and 34 hits, an average of only two and a half runs and less than six hits per game. That's the great change a gain of 15 pounds in weight, following an operation for antrum or sinus trouble, made in a slabman who last year won only four games against 11 defeats and pitched only four complete contests.

IN WINNING FOUR out of six games on the eastern trip up to today, the Bucs made a better showing than any other western crew and equaled the best record credited to any eastern team in the intersectional series so far. In the same period the Reds broke even in eight games, the Cards won only one out of four and the Cubs only one out of six. The Giants and Braves tied the Pirates with four won out of six, and the Robins and Phils split even in six games each.

The reinstatement of Rolly Hemsley and the order sent to him to join the Pirates in Philadelphia today evidently means that Manager Ens was unable to make a satisfactory trade for him. The Bucs will profit if the suspension has the effect of arousing the young backstop and making him jump in and do the work of which he is capable.

THE DEATH OF John Sheehan, of McKeesport, 62, in Mercy Hospital yesterday caused deep regret among the veteran boxing men of this district. While never so prominent in the professional end of the sport as were his brothers, Paddy and Pete, and seeking always to hide his light in the background, he was a splendid influence for the game behind the scenes. Many a boxer who shone in the amateur or professional ranks around here in the old days was a product of the school that Jack conducted in McKeesport 35 years ago, and in later years he helped numerous others along the road to success with instruction and advice, stressing always the value of clean living, of which his own life was a model. He was one of the finest characters and squarest sportsmen ever connected with boxing anywhere, and did more for the good of the game than has ever been publicly known.

Joe Vosmik

AFTER JOE VOSMIK, following a sensational start, fell into such a batting slump that he was lifted from the Cleveland lineup, there was a tendency in some quarters to list him as just another morning glory or a false alarm. But that Manager Roger Peckinpaugh didn't share this view of the youngster was shown by his action in putting him back in the game yesterday.

The Indian pilot declares that his faith in Vosmik has not been shaken. He attributes Joe's falling off to the publicity he received on account of his flashy start. It led to too much being expected of the rookie, he thinks, and in trying to live up to those expectations Vosmik was put under a strain that hurt his hitting.

IN OTHER WORDS, Peckinpaugh believes that instead of being a bust, Joe was only paying the penalty usually paid by batters who are pressing or trying too hard. It was merely to relieve the tension by giving him a rest that he put him on the bench, he says.

Apparently it worked, as the recruit made three hits in his comeback yesterday, though his presence in the lineup did not save the Indians from their tenth consecutive defeat nor prevent the A's from putting over their tenth straight victory.

THE PURSE OF $48,725 won by Twenty Grand in the Kentucky Derby, and his total winnings of $105,305 in a little more than one full season may sound like a lot of money, but it's only a drop in the bucket as measured by the grand turf earnings of the Whitneys. In more than 30 years of racing, thoroughbreds owned by this foremost family on the American turf have won close to $4,000,000, yet racing authorities express the opinion that the owners have derived little if any profit owing to the tremendous expense of breeding and running first-class horses.

MORE THAN 30 YEARS ago the late William C. Whitney founded the now famous stables. His first big triumph was the winning of the Futurity with Ballyhoo Bey, ridden by Tod Sloan, at Sheepshead Bay in 1900. In 1901 his Volodyovski won the English Derby.

At the death of Mr. Whitney, his horses were raced by Herman B. Duryea, but in 1905 the late Harry Payne Whitney resumed the turf operations inaugurated by his father. Another son, Payne Whitney, also built up a stable, and since the death of the brothers the two famous strings have been operated by the widow and son of Payne Whitney on the one side, owners of Twenty Grand, and by the son of Harry Payne Whitney on the other.

WHEN ALFRED BANUET, national handball king, played in Pittsburgh, he was pronounced a marvel by J. Rogers Flannery and other local experts. Out on the Pacific Coast, where he performed recently, handball men concur enthusiastically in that verdict.

Alfred Banuet

They rank this three-time champion as the greatest the game ever knew. Paul Lowry says he is a little bit of Murderball Bill Ranft, Maynard Laswell and a few other former champions rolled into one.

RANFT BECAME CHAMPION years ago because of a terrific kill with his right hand. He was weak on his port side, but could almost break a ball in two with his right paw. Laswell was great because of his remarkable endurance. He could run the other fellow to death and keep him chasing from side to side with zooming underhand shots. And his gets were uncanny. Banuet has all of these—the kill, the gets and the stamina. Coast opponents did not find him unorthodox, as some have listed him. He is versatile, they discovered. He tapes the first two fingers of his right hand together. If he wants accuracy, he uses the open hand as a cup. If he wants pace, he closes his fingers and fists the ball between the knuckles and the fat part of the palm. Banuet, now 24, has been playing handball 12 years. He has already tied Laswell's record by winning the crown three times, and it is predicted that he will keep on winning it a few more years and set an all-time record that will endure far into the future.

U. S. ACE COPS IN BRITISH AMATEUR

The Liverpool player, who defeated Douglas Fairbanks yesterday in the first round, gave the New Yorker a battle from the first hole to the end of the match.

Voigt was 2 up at the end of the first nine, but Abercrombie sank an 18-foot putt to win the tenth and then took the next one to square the match as George drove into the bullrushes and conceded the hole.

Voight came back to win the twelfth when Abercrombie went into the rushes and failed to get out with three tries, but the match was squared again on the thirteenth as the American pitched over the green and then took three putts to get down.

VOIGT EXTENDED

Voigt won the fourteenth with a 3 to the Englishman's 4 and then halved the fifteenth in 4s. George was in a shaky position at the sixteenth when his tee shot was short, with Abercrombie well on the green with his, but he chipped to within nine feet of the pin and then sank the putt for a half, leaving him 1 up and two to go.

The match ended on the seventeenth green, as George sank his long putt for a birdie 4 to win the hole by a stroke. The cards:

OTHER RESULTS

E. J. Hadden, of California, defeated Joshua Crane, of Brookline, Mass., 4 and 3.

Charles Lewis, of Lakeside, Ill., withdrew.

Paul Azbill, entered from the Essex Country Club, of New Jersey, was eliminated by A. R. Nall-Cain, of the Royal and Ancient Club, 4 and 3.

R. B. Foster, an American business man, residing in London, was put out by G. P. Simmons, of the Royal Calcutta Club, 1 up, 20 holes.

WETHERED ADVANCES

Robert Harris, who won the championship in 1925 when it last was held here, defeated Ken Greig, of St. Andrews, 2 up.

T. A. Bourn, former Cambridge player and English amateur champion last year, was defeated by Douglas Fiddian, 3 and 2.

Voigt tomorrow will meet Bernard Darwin, the golfer-writer, who eliminated the English prizefighter, Bombardier Wells, yesterday.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE HAND OF FATIMA—The hand of Fatima is painted on the walls or doors of all Mohammedan houses to ward off the evil eye and to check the "djins" (evil spirits), who are supposed to be forever anxious to enter human habitations. The life of the Oriental is forever haunted with fear of the supernatural, and his reactions are picturesque as well as amusing. I drew my picture from an original on the wall of my sherifian friend's house. PEDRO CANDIOTI SWAM 210 MILES—Candioti, who has been dubbed "El Tiburon de la Quilla," or "The Keel Shark," by his friends, is now 39 years of age, and during the last 10 years has performed many renowned swimming feats in South America. On March 11, 1931, he swam from his home town, Santa Fe, to Buenos Aires in 71 hours 55 minutes, and, a year earlier, March 14, 1930, he swam from Goya to Santa Fe. He accomplished the latter feat in less time, but had the benefit of a heavier current to carry him along.

JIM M'ALEER A SUICIDE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 19.—(AP.)—A death certificate signed by Coroner M. E. Hayes and found in the Board of health office here today said James A. McAleer, former major league baseball manager, whose death was announced April 29, committed suicide.

The certificate gave the cause of death as "gun shot wounds, self inflicted in the head."

The shooting took place April 28, and McAleer died the next day. It was announced then that he died from a lingering illness, and following an operation.

Friends said today that McAleer had been suffering from cancer and quoted him as saying:

Friends said McAleer had been listening to a baseball broadcast April 28 with a number of companions. Attacks of illness forced him to leave the broadcast several times. Finally he went into the bathroom of his apartment, stood before the mirror, and shot himself. Death came 10 hours later.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Catcher Ralston Hemsley, of the Pirates, who was under suspension for overstaying his leave, today rejoined the team in Philadelphia and was placed in good standing by Manager Jewel Ens.

The Pirate management announced today that tickets are on sale at all of the agencies for the Memorial Day morning and afternoon games.

Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Agitated and somewhat disgusted over the hitting of his team, Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, this morning announced a change in the battle front of his club. Moreover, the Pirate lid is liable to blow off with other shakeups if some of the Buccos don't start to use their bats in a hurry.

Ens stated he would get J. Mosolf into action at all costs; the Phillies put a righthander on the mound. Mosolf's entry into action may mean that P. Waner is to come in from the outfield to first, that Grantham would swing back to second and that Regan would go to the bench.

There is a chance, however, that Mosolf will play the initial sack. Jim has been working around the gateway for months and has improved his footwork to a marked degree, although he is not yet a Hal Chase.

SUHR STILL OUT

The Pirate skipper was keenly disappointed when he learned Gus Suhr would not be available for duty in the impending series. The short rightfield fence here is a target for long hitters, especially the clouters of the southpaw stripe.

Ervin Brame pitched like a champion in Boston yesterday as he made his season's debut, but the clever righthander was given scant offensive support by his mates, and he had to taste a bitter defeat. Eddie Brandt was just as effective as was Brame, and the "breaks" of the game going the Boston way, the tribe won a 3-1 verdict.

Aside from Brame, the Buccos made a total of three hits. The hard-hitting pitcher weighed in two lusty blows to swell the total to five. Erv's catcher, Eddie Phillips, scored the only Pittsburgh run of the contest in the fifth, when he hit a homer into the left-field bleachers. Capt. Traynor connected for two singles, the other six Buccos showing nothing but goose eggs for the afternoon.

ERROR AIDS BRAVES

The Braves scored two runs in the fourth when they should have been blanked in the round. With one out, Chatham tried to score from first on Worthington's double to right. P. Waner gave the ball to Regan in time to stop the head man by 10 feet, but Bill's throw was none too good; when the bounding ball reached Phillips it was skidding in such a manner he could not hold it and as it bounded

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

ST. LOUIS, May 19.—Those Cleveland Indians couldn't have dropped any faster if somebody had pulled a trapdoor under them. They looked good for three weeks, but like the schoolteacher that got put on a pension, they have no class now. Something has got to be done about the A's. The Yanks and us are going good enough to lead the league, and we are only in third place. The A's have been playing on this western trip like they had to walk around the whole circuit unless they won all their games. Connie Mack has got 'em mesmerized like Trilby and I don't wish them any hard luck, but a train wreck or an outbreak of measles might help us catch up with them.

PITT, SKIBOS CLASH

UTTERBACK, COULTER TO STAGE DUEL

By JESS CARVER

If Carnegie Tech ever defeated Pitt in a track and field meet, the record has been lost in antiquity or something. Leastways, a close perusal of the archives of the past decade or so has failed to bring to light such a victory for the Skibo army (and legs, too), so if Tech lives up to its rating as favorite to take the Panthers in their dual clash in the Pitt Stadium today, then the Plaid will have something over which to cheer and cheer and cheer by eventide.

Carnegie is being touted as the top choice in today's meet, most of the touting coming from Pitt. The Skibos have been making quite a bit of hay this spring in a track and field way, have won dual meets from Western Reserve, the University of Cincinnati and the P. A. A. and lost only to Geneva.

PITT RECORD DRAB

Pitt hasn't even been close to a win, and has lost to West Virginia, Ohio State and Army. The Panther opponents have all been of more formidable stripe than those of Carnegie, but even at that, the showing made by the Panthers has been very drab.

There are some half dozen reasons why Tech is conceded at least an equal chance of rubbing out the Pitt jinx today. These reasons are: Tom Coulter, all-around work horse and hurdler extraordinary; John Karcis, Seyboth and Murray Armentrout, the hammer heaver; George Nease and Ray Barger, the latter the captain of the Plaid squad. Coulter is the gent who captured four first places against Geneva on Saturday, winning the high and low hurdles, the 440-year run and the broad jump.

UTTERBACK STAR

Opposed to this array of talent Pitt offers its fine captain, Everette Utterback, national indoor champion and record holder in the broad jump; Woody Harris and Len Monheim, sprinters; Marshall Lewis, hurdler, and Knopnicki, wielder of the javelin. The Tech team appears to be the better balanced of the two, which may be the factor to determine the triumph.

The feature of the meet will be the duel for points between Utterback and Coulter. Coulter will have to step to win four firsts today, while Utterback's chances of accounting for that many victories are very good. He's almost a sure shot in the two jumps, an even choice in the pole vault and will make someone go in both the dashes.

Utterback is going after a record in the broad jump today. Coulter will be out to clip the present Stadium marks in the hurdles (where he'll have real opposition in Lewis) and Jimmy Watkins and Bill Keller, Pitt frosh aces, have announced their firm intentions of cracking something wide open in the half-mile. The freshmen squads duel along with the varsity lads.

TURNESA LEADS AT LEEDS

LEEDS, England, May 19.—(AP.)—Joe Turnesa, American professional, today carded a 69 in the first qualifying round of the $5,000 Leeds professional tournament, to take an early lead over the big field.

Turnesa's fine 69 was a record for the course. He turned the first nine in a regulation 36, but came home in a 33. The old record was 70.

Turnesa's fine display was in contrast to the play of the other three Americans in the tournament.

Tony Manero and Horton Smith, who finished third in the $7,500 Southport tournament last week, took 76s. Joe Kirkwood, the New York trick shot artist, was closest to Turnesa with a 74.

Ross Fields Wins Over Sergio Radam

NEW CASTLE, May 19.—Ross Fields, Weirton, W. Va., won the decision in 10 rounds at Castle Bowl last night from Sergio Radam, of Manila and Detroit. Radam was substituting for Luis Carpentero, Toledo, who could not appear on account of injuries. Howard Webb, Indianapolis, won the decision in the six-round semi-final from Frankie Fry, New Castle.

By TOM BIRKS

In the West Penn, Swissvale Community invades Hartman Park to meet Linwood. This game will probably find Jimmy Arrigo opposing Burkey on the slab. The other game brings St. Joachim to the Union High School Stadium at Turtle Creek for the first time.

Two games will be flashed in the City League. The North Side Buicks, led by Johnny Dunsky, will be fighting it out with Homewood at the playgrounds.

SEEK SECOND WIN

The opening game of the season found the Buicks beating Homewood at Pleasant Valley. In that game Luntz hurled a good game for the Buicks, with Sharkey on the mound for the East Enders. Sharkey, pitching his first game in this district, had trouble with his control. There is a chance that Heinie Boll will send him to the mound again this evening. A win for the second time over the champions will give Dunsky the inside track for the first-half title.

Book Shoe will meet the North Side Civics at the Salt Works grounds, and on form, should defeat the home boys. For some reason or other the Civics are going no place fast.

LIFERS MEET HORNES

The Commercial and Industrial League flashes two games. Reliance Life will hook up with Joseph Hornes at Langley Field. The other game finds the Pittsburgh Coal clashing with Frank Rush's B. & O. aggregation at Burgwin Field.

It is quite possible that Hale, the champions' star, will be on the mound against the Railroaders, although Manager Munson may keep the former Middle-Atlantic League pitcher for the big game with Reick-McJunkins at Library tomorrow.

Clarksburg Club Buys Mike Noonan

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 19.—Charles Clark, president of the Clarksburg club of the Middle-Atlantic League, has announced the purchase of Michael Noonan, shortstop, from the Allentown (Pa.) club of the New York-Pa. League.

Noonan was sent here last mid-season by Allentown on an option to fill a bad gap in the local infield, but at the end of the season Allentown reclaimed him.

RANKIN FETE TONIGHT

The basketball and boxing teams of Rankin High School are to be banqueted in the Rankin Christian Center this evening. The affair will get under way at 6:30 and an elaborate program has been arranged.

BOWLING LOOP OPENS RACE

The lid will be pried off tonight in two sections of the three that comprise the new summer bowling league, recently organized by the Greater Pittsburgh Alley Owners' Association. The schedule for tonight:

SECTION I

Dispatch at Browns.
Greensburg at Homestead (Nuss Alleys).
Penn Recreation at Wilkinsburg.
Elba at Vandergrift.
Haus Alleys at Turtle Creek.

SECTION II

Homestead No. 2 at Greensburg No. 2.
Browns No. 2 at Iroquois.
Wilkinsburg No. 2 at Penn Recreation No. 2.
Wabash at Elba No. 2.
R. & G. at Perrysville.

Haus Girl Bowlers Guests at Banquet

WOMEN GOLF TEAMS MEET TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Two women's team league matches are being played this afternoon, Section I dueling over the links of the Pittsburgh Field Club, and Section II playing at the Alcoma Country Club. It is the inaugural event for Section II.

Kiski is to match strokes with Shady Side Academy in a Section I, Interscholastic Golf Conference, match at Shady Side. The women of Shannopin Country Club have carded a medal play event.

Tomorrow the whole day at South Hills will be devoted to the Pennsylvania Golf Association's first one-day tourney of the season, while women will play in their initial one-day tournament at the Allegheny Country Club.

Mrs. Hurd Wins Tournament Medal

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd led the field in the qualifying round of the Philadelphia district woman's golf championship yesterday with an 82 over the 18-hole course. Winner of most women's championships over the country, she was expected to displace Mrs. Ralph I. Raynor, last year's champion, who turned in a 100 today on the Ashbourne C. C. course.

BEECHVIEW FORMS TEAM

The Beechview Civics, indorsed by the Beechview Civic League, will open the season on the Alton street playgrounds next Saturday. All Beechview players and candidates are requested to be on hand Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Beechview wants a game for next Saturday and all Saturdays and Wednesdays at home. Address Davies, 2435 Candace street, South Hills, or call Lehigh 9580-J.

HURLING KEEPS GIANTS HIGH

A'S CONTINUE DRIVE; YANKS ROUT TIGERS

Associated Press.

John J. McGraw predicted in the training season that the new ball would have a marked influence on the National League race and made his plans accordingly.

"All I need," the Giants' pilot said at San Antonio, "is pitching, and I'll get that with this new ball. It's going to make a big difference. You'll see."

How well McGraw sized up the situation is admirably illustrated in the standing today. Largely because of hurling the Giants are running a powerful second in the National League, a bare half-game behind the St. Louis Cardinals.

McGraw's moundsmen have gone the route in 14 out of 24 games, the highest average in either league.

WALKER BEATS CARDS

Another Giant, Bill Walker, pitched the full nine yesterday in setting the Cardinals down, 6 to 3. The crack lefthander allowed only six hits and none of the runs off him was earned.

Ed Brandt, the Braves' big southpaw, who could win only four victories out of 41 games in which he participated last year, scored his sixth straight triumph at the expense of the Pirates, 3 to 1.

Led by Babe Herman, the Brooklyn Robins enjoyed a field day against the luckless Cincinnati Reds. The score was 14 to 4.

Don Hurst's pinch single off Jakie May drove in the winning run as the Phillies scored twice in the ninth to nose out the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4. Buzz Arlett hit his seventh homer of the year.

WHITE SOX VICTORS

The Chicago White Sox turned the neatest trick of the day in the American League when they rallied for six runs in the ninth round to beat Boston, 9 to 8.

There was no sign of a letup on the part of the Athletics as they continued their whirlwind tour of the West. They defeated Cleveland for their tenth straight victory, 10 to 7, sending the Indians down to sixth.

The New York Yankees kept pace by scoring a 20-to-8 victory over the Detroit Tigers and squaring their four-game series. It was a wild one, the Yanks batting around in three innings.

The City League high school baseball nines complete their regular schedules with today's contests. The sectional titles are at stake in today's tussles, with Schenley and Westinghouse meeting in the deciding game in the first division, and the three leaders in Section II, Oliver, South Hills and Allegheny, clashing in important tests. The situation in Section II is so tight that a playoff game or two may be necessary.

One way or the other, Schenley or Westinghouse is bound to cop the Section I honors. A victory for either means the title for that team. Peabody, out of the running for the title, ends its campaign by taking on Allderdice.

TUNNELITES MEET CARRICK

In Section II South Hills battles Carrick. Oliver tangles with Allegheny and Vocational and Langley, destined to remain in the last two places, tie up at Langley.

Two of the three leaders are bound to be tied after today's tussles, necessitating play-off tussles ere a representative can be secured to carry the colors of the section against the Section I leaders in the series for the league title.

In a W. P. I. A. L. play-off game, Scott High, defending champion and leaders of Section IV, meets McKeesport, champion of Section V at Pitcairn. In the closing battle on the Section I schedule, Mt. Lebanon meets Dormont. In Section III, Beaver and Monaca hook up in the rubber game of the series for the title.

CONNELLEY WINS

Yesterday, Connelley downed Allderdice in a postponed tussle in Section I of the City League, 8 to 5. In a like game in Section II, Allegheny outhit Vocational to win, 11 to 8. Carnegie eliminated Crafton from the running in Section I of the W. P. I. A. L. with a 6-to-4 setback.

Wilkinsburg tied up the series for the independent county title with Rankin, winning 3 to 2 in 11 innings.

TORONTO, May 19.—(INS.)—Art Weigand, Buffalo heavyweight boxer, was believed out of danger today, following his collapse last night, when he was knocked out in a bout here by Jack Renault, Montreal fighter. ALUMNI ELEVEN WINS

The Alumni defeated the Varsity fotoball team, 14 to 7, on a sizzling hot campus yesterday afternoon as the annual Duquesne University Monogram Club football game was played on the Bluff gridiron. GRAYS BEATEN BY CUBANS

The defeat served the Homestead Grays by the Cuban House of David nine at Charleroi yesterday was perhaps the most important district sandlot result. Any time the Grays lose one, it's worth recording. The Cubans won a hotly contested fray, 3 to 2.

In the City League, Dormont turned in a 9-to-5 victory over the J. L. Thomas entry. Homewood, behind Carl Stewart's fine pitching, defeated Book Shoe, 2 to 1. Dunn pitched well for the Shoemen, but Heinie Boll got a single and a triple and scored the run that beat him.

BRYANT HURLS ONE-HIT WIN

The Johnstown Johnnies are still out in first place today in the Mid-Atlantic League, but not because of any sensational stick work on their part yesterday. Rather, had Hagerstown been able to defeat Charleroi, the Johns would be sharing the first place position with the Marylanders today.

Pitcher Bryant, of Clarksburg, permitted the Johnnies one hit yesterday as Clarksburg won, 1 to 0. The Generals only got four bingles from the combined delivery of Thompson and Jones.

Jeannette, having given up its franchise in the league after losing nine games out of as many starts, came to life and walloped Fairmont, 14 to 3. The Jays hammered out a total of 18 safe hits. Mattis went the route on the slab for the victors.

Charleroi defeated Hagerstown, 8 to 6, and Cumberland's Colts punched out a 9-to-6 win over Huntington. The Charleroi-Hagerstown game bobbed up with the most errors of the day, five being committed.

Rain kept Beckley and Wheeling idle at Wheeling and Charleston and Scottdale were not scheduled.

After two were out, Schulmerick singled to score the second run. The one legitimate run made by the Braves was recorded in the sixth, when a double to left by Worthington was followed by a single to center by Sheely.

Larry French will face the Phillies this afternoon in the first meeting of the Pirates and Quakers this season. French may be opposed by Harold Elliott.

Blaw-Knox Adds New Products to Line

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE BLAW-KNOX COMPANY is continuing to add new products to its extensive line of specialized types of machinery. This development work was a major factor in maintaining sales and earnings in 1930 at levels only slightly below those of 1929.

Among the Blaw-Knox products are road-building machinery, steel forms for concrete work, steel floors for industrial buildings, rolling mill rolls, steel transmission towers and equipment for open hearth furnaces.

The latest additions to products have been equipment for the handling of cement in bulk, concrete mixing bodies for motor trucks and a new line or grading equipment for use with tractors.

The bulk cement handling equipment was developed by the Blaw-Knox engineering staff. It is expected that a large market can be found with various types of contractors since it makes possible large savings in costs over handling cement in bags.

To Make Tractor Equipment

A CONTRACT WAS RECENTLY closed with the American Tractor Equipment Company giving Blaw-Knox the exclusive rights to manufacture and sell equipment developed by this company in the United States east of the Rocky Mountains and in all foreign countries. The arrangement completes the Blaw-Knox line of grading and road-building machinery.

The marketing of these newest products has not been reflected in sales and earnings of Blaw-Knox up to the present time. They are expected to become of increasing importance in the future. The sales of other products placed on the market last year are showing satisfactory gains and are adding to the organization's total volume this year.

April Sales Large

TOTAL SALES IN APRIL of this year were approximately equal to incoming business in April, 1930. Unfilled orders on May 1 amounted to $5,467,478 as compared with $5,976,096 a year ago.

While earnings for the first half of 1931 may not be as large as in the corresponding period of 1930 when net profit reached $1,694,002 or $1.28 a share on 1,322,395 shares of stock, they are expected to cover dividend requirements for the period. The stock is on a $1.50 annual dividend basis.

For the full year of 1930 the company reported net profit of $2,689,207 or $2.03 a share compared with $2,838,736 or $2.16 a share in 1929.

Current Position Strong

THE COMPANY HAS NO FUNDED debt or preferred stock. The balance sheet of December 31, 1930, showed an exceptionally strong position. Current assets of $7,646,938 were 7.7 times all current liabilities. Cash loans amounted to $2,337,137 as compared with current liabilities of $990,685.

During 1929 the Blaw-Knox Company expanded its operations through the acquisition of A. W. French & Co., National Alloy Steel Company, Union Steel Casting Company and Lewis Foundry and Machine Company.

DONAHOE'S NET INCREASES

Donahoe's, Inc., reports profits for the first quarter of 1931 amounting to $83,581 as compared with $43,403 for the first quarter of 1930.

Sales for the 1931 quarter were $1,674,122 as compared with $1,725,904, a decrease of less than one-third of 1 per cent, which the company considers to be a remarkably good showing as their retail food prices are about 25 per cent below last year's level.

The company is serving more people and is handling a far greater tonnage of foodstuffs now than ever before in its history. The second quarter of 1931 is expected to show even a larger increase in net profits over the second quarter of 1930.

MARKET TURNS SOGGY AFTER RALLYING

Trading Becomes Dull on Decline—Steel Advances Then Sags—Rails Gain

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP.)—The stock market was given respite from selling pressure after eight sessions of almost steady decline, during the early hours of today's session, but a few isolated weak spots cropped out during the afternoon, and the market again turned soggy.

The lifting of pressure against the rails was a notable development during the morning, and several issues rallied 2 or 3 points. Several prominent industrials also were carried higher, but lost their gains as selling appeared in a few selected issues after midday. The upturn of the morning was negotiated in active trading, transfers in the first half hour aggregating 500,000 shares, but the market turned dull as the session wore on.

U. S. Steel rose 1¼ points to 100¼, then slipped off a couple of points from the top.

Further cheapening of credit, with consequent new high levels in United States government securities, and continued demand for highest grade bonds were among the day's notable developments. The reduction in the rate of interest which New York banks pay on commercial deposits and deposits of other banks from 1 to ½ of 1 per cent was considered the most important step in the cheap money program since the cut in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate two weeks ago. Call money renewed at 1½ per cent, but bankers would not be surprised to see it stabilize at 1 per cent.

Reduction of Texas Corporation's quarterly dividend from 75 to 50 cents was a blow to the deep-dyed pessimists over the oil outlook, for they would not have been surprised at an omission. The stock quickly responded to short covering. The weekly petroleum statistics, according to preliminary figures, will show a large drop in crude output for the successive week. Selling of the chain store and tobacco issues was regarded as a further response to the upholding of the Indiana chain store tax law, and the fresh retail cigaret price-cutting.

RESERVE CUTS BILL RATE

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today reduced its buying rate on acceptances by ⅛ of 1 per cent to 1 per cent for bills maturing in 16 to 90 days.

The reduction is the fifth downward revision in less than four weeks. As quotations on acceptances are in percentage yields the reduction is equivalent to an increase in price. The lower yields are another step in the Federal Reserve policy to force money rates downward as an aid to business. Acceptances constitute an important form of commercial credit.

A general cut in bankers' acceptances rates of ⅛ of 1 per cent up to 90 days was also announced. The new rates are, 30 to 90 days, 1 per cent bid and ⅞ asked; 120 days, 1⅛ bid and 1 asked; 150 to 180 days, 1⅜ bid and 1¼ asked.

Stone in Conference With Grain Traders

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A conference with representatives of the grain trade was held today by Chairman Stone of the Farm Board.

Stone declined to disclose the nature of the discussions or the names of the grain men, but asserted the conversations did not concern suggestions that the Grain Stabilization Corporation's wheat surplus stocks be turned over to the grain trade for disposal. Such a course was not being contemplated, he said.

Refrigerating Suit Won by Carbice

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The American Patents Development Corporation's patent on a method of refrigerating foodstuffs by means of carbon dioxide, was held invalid by the United States Supreme Court in disposing of the suit of Carbice Corporation against the American Patents Development Corporation and Dry Ice Corporation.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 19.—The curb market jiggled nervously today, but on the whole the undertone seemed considerably steadier. Utilities acted better and weak spots in the industrials were less pronounced. Oils, however, eased.

Selling of Rails from Abroad has Increased In Recent Sessions

A larger amount of selling has been coming into the rails from abroad. As in the past, the supply caused rumors of some difficulties in European countries. Considerable of the foreign liquidation probably has been due to fright caused by the steady decline in what had been the favorite investment issues abroad. Stop orders reached on reactions recently are said to have dislodged some foreign holdings.

Weakness in the railroad group in the past has been due first to the widespread pessimism owing to increased competition from motor trucks, waterways, pipe lines and airplanes, and secondly to the voluntary and other liquidation which has come from individuals, investment trusts, banks and other holders. It was the competition encountered during the period from 1926 to 1929, when prosperity prevailed, which prevented the carriers from placing themselves in an almost impregnable position to withstand the depression of the past two years. Naturally, with the stocks so sharply lower, considerably more attention is being given to the intense rivalry for the smaller amount of traffic obtainable.

Considerable diversity of opinion exists as to what action the board of directors of the Boston and Maine Railroad will take on the common dividend when they meet May 26. While one faction would like to continue the regular payment, it is understood other members would like to reduce the current $4 rate and others to pass it. There is still said to be at least a 50-50 chance that the dividend will be maintained.

In a few circles where there is a tendency to seek issues which may do better later this year, Diamond Match has been studied. The company in the past has showed stability in net earnings. More attention is being given to its strong financial position. A special adjustment of the balance sheet as of January 1, last, giving effect to the sale of 350,000 common shares, reveals that cash alone was 10 times in excess of current liabilities. It is stated that the indicated book value of the 1,050,000 common shares was slightly more than $39, which is substantially above recent selling prices.

American Can has been one of the bear targets, and some of the drives against the stock have been well advertised by the traders. Interests in the company are by no means pessimistic on the long-term outlook. The absence of efforts to support the stock has permitted the bears to make good their predictions for lower prices recently.

A feature of yesterday's session was the comparatively firm tone ruling in the red metal shares in face of a further downward adjustment in the price of copper and the postponement of the Kennecott dividend action. The export price of copper was reduced another ¼ cent following a similar reduction last week, and leading producers were reported offering the metal for domestic sale at 9 cents after having remained out of the market for several weeks while customers smelters were quoting at that figure. Coppers eased fractionally to new lows near the opening, but later developed a distinctly firm tone in the absence of any important selling. The Kennecott meeting was postponed until some time around June 1, probably for lack of quorum, though the reason was not given.

WORLD COPPER OUTPUT OFF

NEW YORK, May 19.—World copper output in April totaled 128,677 tons, against 136,458 tons in March and 150,595 tons in April, 1930, according to the American Bureau of Metal statistics.

Copper sales continue good abroad, with moderate buying in the domestic market. Foreign sales in the forenoon today were 2,000,000 pounds and Monday around 7,000,000 pounds.

Electrolytic for domestic shipment is 9 cents a pound delivered to the end of September, and 9.275 cents c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

Output of refined lead in the United States in April was 38,439 short tons, against 44,800 in March and 64,067 in April, 1930.

Wholesale Market Shows Improvement

NEW YORK, May 19.—Retail sales showed a substantial pickup at the week-end, with the result that orders reaching the New York wholesale market at the beginning of the week showed an improvement. Indications were said to be, however, that the number of buyers in the New York wholesale merchandise market during the week will not be particularly large, with the bulk of the new business to come through the mails.

Lima Gets Order For Engine Tenders

NEW YORK, May 19.—Lima Locomotive Works has received an order from the Central Railroad of New Jersey for five locomotive tenders of 21,000-gallon capacity each.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows. 000 omitted; sales column United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars:

DAILY TRUE STORY

Blind Date

Beautiful Girl Refuses Many Proposals

Now to have an utter stranger come into the exclusive little village of Heathstone was not unusual. Nor was it unusual for the people of the village to accept such a stranger as a friend—after a proper length of time and a proper amount of investigation as to the erstwhile stranger's background.

But when the stranger is a young woman of around 25, and when she comes to the village quite alone and gives no further account of herself than to say she tired of life in New York, it is decidedly unusual for the careful and exclusive Heathstone denizens to like her and accept her as one of them.

She had come out to the village, inspected the ancient red sandstone cottage that had been the Verlaine farm home 50 years before, and quietly purchased it.

The old place had been an eyesore, as it was in ruins as to roof and veranda. Word went out from Maj. Tuttle, the local banker, than an M. J. Wyeth had bought the place and it was to be built over.

Workmen began to remodel the place, to landscape the grounds and erect a garage.

"I wonder," Mrs. Patterson said, "if that young lady is this Mr. M. J. Wyeth's wife?"

"My dear, I'm not supposed to tell," Mrs. Tuttle said, "but M. J. Wyeth is a young woman—probably she is the one."

Joins Country Club

Marjorie came and made her home in the remodeled cottage. All Heathstone admired the place. They began to admire Marjorie because she made no attempt to become acquainted. She attended church, drove about the country, did her marketing and went her quiet way.

There was a gardener and his wife working for her. No men folks appeared.

Mrs. Tuttle, after consultation with prominent friends, called on Marjorie Weyth.

"I was charmed, positively charmed," Mrs. Tuttle reported. "She's a dear—so brilliant. I looked about for pictures. There wasn't a man's picture in the place except one of an officer, her brother, she explained, killed in the war. I asked her outright if there was a Mr. Wyeth and she said that she was unmarried. I think we ought to take her into the Heathholm."

Marjorie was made a member.

Now there were quite a number of nice men in the village, some bachelors of education and means and a few widowers, equally eligible.

Several of them became interested in Marjorie. Two of them proposed. One wouldn't expect anything else, for Marjorie was beautiful. It also became known that she had quite an independent fortune, but as both men who had proposed were extremely wealthy, it wasn't fortune hunting.

"The only trouble with Marjorie," Stella Dickson said, "is that she seems afraid of men—or at least she doesn't care for them. She dances beautifully, but she hasn't danced three times in the two years she has been here."

Visited by Friend

Marjorie did say once that all of her people were dead except a sister who was married to a wealthy man in Australia.

"A bit too far away for me to run in and visit her often," Marjorie explained.

Stella Dickson's young man, Kirk Houseman, telephoned her one Friday noon from New York.

Stella, I'm up against it," he said. "Bart Holman is on from Paris and either I've got to bring him out or stay in town over the week-end. Bart and I are old pals and we haven't seen each other for six years and—"

"Bring him out—and bring some nice girl friend out for him, Kirk," Stella urged.

But when Kirk arrived with Mr. Bartholomew Holman there was no girl friend.

After the introduction Kirk explained to Stella that he just couldn't find any girl friend.

"You'll have to dig up someone for the party, dear," he said.

"But, Kirk, most of my friends are either all mated up or away. Goodness, but this chum and pal of yours is handsome; better watch your step or you'll lose me."

Kirk laughed at her.

"Bart's one swell hombre, Honey, and polite and all that, still he is only superficially polite to girls—he doesn't care for them—the sex doesn't appeal to him."

"Sated in Paris?" she quizzed.

"Then I've got just the girl for him—Marjorie Wyeth! She's sweet and lovely and cheerful and she'd be a good mate for your friend because no end of our best boys have proposed and learned that she doesn't care for marriage."

Invites Marjorie

So Stella telephoned to Marjorie.

"But honestly I—I don't care to meet any handsome, strange young men, dear," Marjorie had protested.

"He probably won't say two words to you—do come."

So Marjorie promised.

The guests were down at the tennis courts, she was told, so she started down across the terrace. Stella promptly introduced her to Mr. Holman.

Mr. Holman seemed a trifle rattled.

"The name is Wyeth," Marjorie said.

"Oh!"

It sounded inane, the way Holman said it.

They separated soon after this and watched the players, but neither of them played.

"A couple of dead ones," Stella groaned to Kirk.

"Looks like it," he agreed. "Guess we'll give them the family album to look at or some crossword puzzle to do and go ahead with our party tonight."

Marjorie murmured something about a headache and drove home, promising to be back for dinner.

Everyone was astonished to see Marjorie that night. No one had seen her jewels before, nor had anyone seen her in such a gorgeous evening gown. Furthermore, she seemed to be just twice as beautiful as ever before.

More than that, she just drifted over to this Mr. Bartholmew Holman as if drawn by a magnet.

Couple Elope

"I hope to smother if you aren't right," she gasped.

And after dinner, during the dancing, Marjorie and Bart Holman seemed to forget that there were any other guests present. What dances they didn't dance together they took out on the terrace in the moonlight.

"For once a blind date is going to prove a blessing," Stella said. "Imagine Marjorie falling in love at sight!"

Sunday Bart Holman went to Marjorie's house and brought her back to Stella's place—after three hours.

Monday Marjorie and Bart disappeared.

They didn't show up until Wednesday and tongues were clacking ominously in the village until Marjorie explained to Stella that she and Bart were married.

"I hope you're sure, Marjorie—I wouldn't marry on sight like that," Stella said, sincerely worried.

"We are both sure. If you'll keep a secret I'll tell you something. We were married four years ago and divorced over a terrible misunderstanding—and when we saw each other—Oh, I'm so happy!"

"Gee," Stella said, kissing her, "that's just the swellest blind date I ever heard of."

Kirk winked at Marjorie then, for he knew all about it. Bart had located Marjorie through detectives, come on from Paris and, knowing that Kirk lived in Heathstone, got him to take him out for the week-end.

If Stella hadn't suggested inviting Marjorie over Kirk was going to insist. That's the only coincidence in the whole affair.

"Why, Avery Rarick, how could you!"

It's the only thing I could do, mother. I'm not cut out for the college-factory. Matter of fact, if I am cut out for much of anything, I haven't found out yet what it is. That's what I want to talk about. You've been such a brick getting father to put up with me, that it's kind of rotten to bring this home to you after the way you maneuvered for Eastern. But it would have been the same at Penn, or what ever state university it was father preferred. It isn't that I haven't been working. I have—after a fashion—worked, if you'd call it that!"

"Right, mother. I mean, I've been scribbling. Writing a little. Verse and stuff. Pretty rotten. Wouldn't like to see it, would you? Might give you a better idea of why I think a couple of years on my own—knocking about Europe—alone—alone—would put me straight—with things. Mother, you're not listening!"

She lifted her tormented eyes to him, which for the moment she had closed against the milling of her inner frenzy, and made the pretense of having heard.

"That is all stuff and nonsense, Avery. You are to bide your time at college, and next summer take that trip to Norway and Sweden with the Stanley-Blake twins."

"I don't give a damn for those saps, mother."

"Those 'saps,' as you are pleased to call them, will some day be two of the most powerful men in America."

"I tell you I need to be alone, Mother. To find myself."

"Oh—Avery—"

Imaginary Letters

"I know! I sound like a letter to a newspaper. Well, I'm capable of writing one like this: 'Editor, Daily Bunk, Dear Sir: What should a young man of 17 years of age do who simply cannot get interested in life as he sees it about him? I cannot find myself. Everything becomes disgustingly monotonous. Not interesting enough to call for any real effort.

"'I'm a perfect failure to date, and unless I pull out, may remain so for the rest of my days on this supposedly glorious earth. Everything about me is as interesting as a morgue, where I am concerned. What's wrong with this picture?'"

"Letter from Editor to Morbid Young Man: 'Your symptoms, young man, include indifference to whatever you do and the belief that a congenial task would reveal your hitherto unappreciated values. As you see the world, it is sadly out of joint and you wonder why others are so indifferent to the pearl of great price hidden in your personality. Young man, behind your inability to connect with life lurks an egregious self-centeredness and an exaggerated idea of your own consequence.'"

"Avery, I can't bear it. You are too funny to be borne. Stop it, idiot! How can one take you seriously?"

Wants to Get Away

"But I am serious, mother. I'm clowning Hamlet for you."

How slenderly handsome he was, his father's son around the eyes and brow, but son of his mother in the lean, lithe figure. As he sat there on the edge of the table, dangling one long, cleverly clad leg and showing, as if to excellent stage direction, his clean blade of profile, he was like one of these well-made youths in English society comedies.

"Avery, I simply must go. My advice to you is to pack yourself back to college without even letting your father know about this—brainstorm."

"Mother, I'm in hell!"

"Then you are in some trouble, son," she cried out, a sudden terror darting to her eyes.

"I know, mother, I know, it all sounds like tommy-rot," he cried, and struck his breast with a gesture that immediately became sophomoric to her, once he followed it up with words. "But can't you understand? The hell is here inside me. I must get away. Alone. To think—it it—— It's too cluttered up here. I can't stand the clutter. I'm sick of being me. And doing the things a fellow has to do if he is me. Give me a year or two on my own, mother. Get father to. I want to think. I want to think my way out . . ."

"Of what?"

"How do I know? How can I try to tell it, when you sit there thinking of other things. When you won't understand."

How dear he was. How inexpressively dear. Hurtingly young. Silly, sensitive, sophomoric dreamer. She had never seen him like this. At least not exactly like this. She wanted to take him in her arms . . . Ramon was waiting.

"Mother dear, be a brick. Put it up to father before I have to face the music. Make him see that I need a couple of years' away—to myself——"

"He'll never understand, mother. Coming from me, the suggestion will only antagonize him. I can't be myself with father—any more than I sometimes think he can be with me."

"Hush, Avery."

Must Face Father

There was one principle of hers which Jenny had never even bent, much less broken. She could not bring herself to discuss her husband's shortcomings with his children.

"I must go!" she cried, wildly. "If you insist upon coming home from college with such ideas, son, it is manlier that you should face your father yourself. Tell him just what you have told me."

"I can't! I can't! You know that."

"Then begin to learn now. I cannot always be buffer between you. Tell him what you've told me."

"Here he comes. Tell him now."

"Mother, for God's sake! You wouldn't do that——"

For the first time in her life, Jenny would. She was off and gone down the corridor, frantic with haste, just as Rarick, attracted by his son's voice, paused at his door to peer in.

Utilities' Side of It

President Phillips' Defense Fails to Absolve the Public Service Commission.

President E. R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, was a little too vehement at times in his address before the Hungry Club in defense of the public utilities.

His characterization of the Pinchot Fair Rate Board bills as "the most radical socialistic legislation ever presented before a legislature in this country" was far-fetched.

In asserting "It is inconceivable that the people of Pennsylvania are in favor of government operation of their utilities," President Phillips must have overlooked Pittsburgh's water system, must have overlooked the clamor of protest that arose in Coraopolis when the profitable municipal electric light plant was sold to the Duquesne Light Company, must have overlooked many other examples of municipally operated utilities in Pennsylvania.

But let these lapses pass. On the whole the address was a fair presentation of the utilities' side of the current controversy.

President Phillips' companies are out to make money, and as much of it as they honestly can. He undertook to show that their rates are reasonable. He chose, however, to omit mention of some of the most flagrantly unreasonable rates.

He did not explain, for example, why the Duquesne Light Company requires its customers in the rural parts of Allegheny County to pay an exorbitant fixed charge, based on the cost of the line extension, regardless of how little current is used. The telephone company, erecting similar extensions to rural customers, exacts no such charge, although its poles and wires are just as expensive.

President Phillips defended the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's 25-cent bus fare on the ground that it was necessary to protect the earnings of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. That may be sufficient justification from Mr. Phillips' viewpoint, but it is no justification at all from the standpoint of the people of Pittsburgh forced to pay a quarter for a 10-cent service.

But the Duquesne Light Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company are not so much to blame for this mulcting of the people as the Public Service Commission, which has let them "get away with it."

The Public Service Commission has granted some of Mr. Phillips' companies a monopoly. It permits them to charge $25 a month for $5 worth of electric current and 25 cents for a 10-cent bus ride, and refuses to let other companies enter the field in competition.

President Phillips' defense of the utilities failed to absolve the Public Service Commission.

Redistricting Necessary

Government Will Not Be Representative If All Congressmen Are Elected at Large.

The Legislature should not adjourn until the state's congressional districts have been re-drawn to conform to the requirements of the reapportionment based on the 1930 census.

Unless the Legislature attends to the matter the 34 congressmen will be elected at large in 1932. This would make it possible for the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh machines to get together and dictate a slate which, if the citizens voted as they often have before, would stand a good chance of election. The state under such an arrangement might not have a single independent congressman, not one free from the domination of the machine.

The situation would, of course, also be bad if Gov. Pinchot's followers or any other element should nominate all of the state's congressmen.

Successful Men

New Business Leaders Looming Up in Companies Which Have Prospered During Depression.

Depression brings a net increase of business failures over business successes.

But, in reading the record, the public should bear in mind that at every stage of the business cycle enterprising individuals and groups deviate from the broad general trend.

To be specific, though corporate profits in the aggregate declined sharply in the first quarter of 1931, as compared with the corresponding months of the previous year, there was a significant array of companies that succeeded in bucking the adverse trend.

Although average industrial and railroad companies showed declines in profits of 40 per cent or more, at least 54 companies went their own way, and reported larger net earnings for the first quarter than a year ago.

In other words, success stories were being accomplished in a red ink period.

When competitors are in a defeatish mood, new chances for success loom up for the daring and the courageous.

When general efforts slacken and there is less competition for consumer attention, there is an incentive for the vigilant to strengthen their relative position in their own field.

Certain businesses, such as foodstuffs, tobacco, motion pictures, electricity, and communications, have shown themselves to be relatively depression-proof.

And yet superior profit makers have done well even in hard hit industries where the majority has suffered.

The exceptional records have for the most part been made by men who were quick to adjust their operations to present day tendencies, while the less successful drifted, waiting for conditions to improve.

New business leaders for the future are looming up in the companies which have prospered even during depression.

Success is measured by skill in overcoming obstacles, not merely by riding on the flood tides of prosperity.

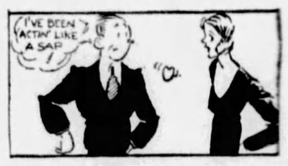
"Hope Chests and Caskets"

The first sign that love is on the wane is a man's discovery that the brand of a woman's perfume has ceased to intoxicate him and begun to cloy him.

* * *

Genius, in a husband, is that which keeps his wife in a state of tremulous uncertainty as to whether he will wake up in a rosy glow of inspiration or with a dark-blue grouch.



A man always imagines that, when he falls in love, he will feel like a god and act like a movie-hero—and is always shocked to discover that, for the first time in his life, he feels like a schoolboy and acts like a sap.

* * *

Most of the younger generation want "to live first—and do their thinking afterward." Well—there have been lots of people who believed in marrying first and doing their thinking in Reno; in shooting first and thinking between the courtroom and the chair; and in taking a drink first and thinking while they waited for the ambulance.

* * *

A woman could relinquish a love-affair far more cheerfully and gracefully if she could only end it with a Big Dramatic Scene. But, nine times out of ten, the man sneaks out through the wings before the drama is over.

The modern girl spends all her spare change on face-packs and lipsticks, rather than on her Hope Chest. She probably figures that a few scented kisses may get a man to the altar, but that a box of embroidered guest towels will never keep him in the house, nights.

* * *

Men handed women the ballot as a token of esteem; and just about the same time, women handed men the Eighteenth Amendment, as a token of gratitude.

* * *

It may mean nothing, but there is a cabinet-maker in Eastern Connecticut who displays this sign: "Hope Chests and Caskets."

EXPLORING SPACE

By Archibald Henderson

For a good many years, scientists have been hopefully considering the problem of greatly increasing the size of our telescopes. Contrary to popular opinion, glass is by no means the best material for making telescopic mirrors. With even a slight access of heat, glass is subject to distortions; and this is the greatest possible handicap. About 30 years ago Prof. Elihu Thompson was influenced to make a study of quartz or silica, as a material for telescope disks, because it is almost impervious to heat. Although he satisfied himself that quartz was the ideal material, he dropped his researches, as there was no pressing demand for such experimentation. Within the past few years, his attention has again been directed to the subject, chiefly because it had been discovered that fused quartz was transparent for ultra-violet light and had admirable qualities as an electric insulator. The outcome was the serious undertaking of the manufacture of quartz telescope mirrors.

Sand was melted, to serve as a rough base, and the surface of this was then coated with refined quartz. Of the various methods for applying this coating, the one finally adopted was to feed fine quartz into a blow torch, with the result that this powdery substance was homogeneously melted in the flame.

Three years ago, Prof. Thompson achieved signal success with an 11-inch disk. The possibilities for the future of astronomy were so immense that astronomers immediately raised the question: Why not a disk 20 times as large as this?

So impressed were the members of the International Education Board that funds were provided for the construction of a 200-inch telescope. It was specifically stated that this telescope was to be used for the benefit of the astronomers of the world. Before embarking upon this huge experiment, the General Electric Company decided to make first, if possible, a satisfactory disk, 66 inches in diameter. It is an extraordinary instance of the splendid co-operative spirit of modern business that the Thompson Research Laboratory undertook this experiment at its own expense, although it required a large outlay for the manufacture and setting up of entirely new, greatly enlarged machinery.

Many grave difficulties had to be overcome. For instance, the consumption of hydrogen was enormous and out of all proportion to results and value. Experimentation provided a substitute in butane, a hydrocarbon in oil wells, from which the hydrogen was released by the cracking process. Owing to the expense of Brazilian crystal, resort was had to Maine quartz, and this powdered quartz had to be sifted out while wet and afterwards dried at a temperature of 800 degrees Fahrenheit.

The process of blowing on the surface coating of molten quartz was long and slow. Layer after layer of even coating had slowly to be laid on. For instance, a coating five-eighths of an inch thick was laid on a 22-inch disk. The volume of the coating laid on the 66-inch, only three times the diameter of the former, was 225 times as great.

This was a gigantic advance, almost larger than engineers could well have hoped for, at a single bound. The next step, from the 66-inch to the 200-inch, will represent a proportional advance, fortunately, however, not of 225 but of only 22. There seems no reason now to doubt that within a few years the construction of the proposed 200-inch disk will be successfully completed.

It has been computed that the new telescope will multiply the ability of the astronomers to plumb stellar spaces by at least ten-fold. Such a multiplication dispower will result in countless discoveries beyond the capacity of even scientists to predict.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Twenty-three. And everything gone stale. Listen—

Dear Elsie Robinson:

Maybe you'll laugh—maybe you'll cry—don't know which and don't care. Here's my story. I had a good home, fine mother, everything I needed. Yet at 12 I began carrying newspapers so I could have my own money to spend. That was my first step toward freedom. Even as a kid, I had a great time. The company for which my father worked transferred us from city to city. Gay times—always something doing—amusement, excitement.

At 17, left school for a $50 per week job, against my parents' wishes. Result—a car, wine, women and song—thrills aplenty. Ran the gauntlet. Burnt? Yes, in a dozen places. Was that a lesson? No—just begging for more.

Married. Doctor's bills. Funeral bills. A big, baby boy, all mine.

Took up flying. Even that got stale, after a while. Experimented with electricity and mechanics. Stale—stale! Tried farming to get a grip on myself. Too tame. Nearly died of boredom.

Married again. Separated. Got no breaks—didn't want any. Chasing again. Full speed ahead—give 'er the gun! Woman killer—they can't leave me alone. Yet, women hater—though I can't leave them alone.

And now—I'm stalled. Tried everything once and it's all stale. Yet I'm starving for thrills. Maybe I'll try auto-racing—wonder if that will go stale, too. WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT? N. B.

Houston, Texas.

An unusual letter? No—not in thrill chasing 1931. And one answer will go for them all, old or young.

"WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?" Well, son, up to the present moment it has been ALL ABOUT YOURSELF. And why has everything gone stale? That's why. Because no matter how smart you are, or how daring, AS AN EXCLUSIVE TOPIC OF INTEREST YOU'RE BOUND TO BE A FLOP.

"But I've traveled, seen places, done things—" you protest. "I've had a thousand interests—"

You're wrong. You've never been anywhere outside . . . YOURSELF. You have never experienced anything except . . . YOURSELF. Great things have happened AROUND you, but they have never happened IN you. For you were not concerned with their greatness. You were only concerned with THEIR REACTION ON YOU. You spent your time counting your pulse beats while the whole circus roared by. YOUR EMOTIONS—they've been your whole show. No wonder you've gone stale!

For, after all, how ample and diversified are your emotions? A little love, a little hate, conceit and desire, anger and fear—the same, small fistful of emotions, over and over and over. You're surprised that you have exhausted them in 23 years? Actually, you could have learned all there was to know about them in 23 minutes. Nothing novel or complicated about you or your generation, lad. You're as simple as any fishworm. And, no matter what you do, you harp on the same old repertoire.

YOU MIGHT AS WELL SPEND YOUR LIFE PLAYING WITH YOUR TOES!

Starving for thrills—you say? THEN GO OUT AND GET THEM! Cut out the ga-ga gestures! Stop making faces at yourself and listening to your own broadcast! Get out where life is really going on—out where humans are collecting medals for something smarter than guzzling cheap gin and necking cheap women and riding around in kiddie cars. The world is full of adventures—the immortal adventures of the brain and soul . . . life is full of wonders and challenges . . . and they never stale, my son. But it takes a man to tackle them——

HAVE YOU THE NERVE?

Stupendous Wastage

Associate Professor of Economics, University of California.

"COMPETITION is war; and war is hell!" Despite lip-service to the competitive ideal, the great majority of businessmen in America really feel about competition as did the late A. J. Eddy when he wrote the aphorism quoted above as the keynote for his book on "The New Competition." Recently there has been somewhat less even of lip-service to the god of competition, but fundamentally the distinction suggested above is sound. The history of trusts, combinations, trade associations and mergers in this country is full of the claims of the organizers of the various combinations that in each case the industry which they proposed to "trustify" was different; that although competition was the principle upon which the economic structure of the nation rested and upon whose maintenance it depended, the oil, or tobacco, or cash register business was of such a character that in it combination was necessary. But in no one of the industries named were the promoters willing to let that necessity demonstrate itself. They all resorted to methods of eliminating competitors that at one time or another called forth the most severe condemnation of the federal courts. As is well known, in fact, the revelations in the 1870's and 1880's of the unfair and ruthless tactics of the old oil trust were an important cause prompting the passage of a number of the state anti-trust laws and of the federal Sherman anti-trust act.

MOREOVER, few, if any, intelligent observers of our economic history will deny that in 1890 some sort of a statute setting limits to the power of the trusts was necessary. There has always been, however, considerable honest difference of opinion, even in the Supreme Court, regarding the wisdom of the apparently sweeping nature of the prohibitions embodied in the Sherman act. In 1911 the critics of this aspect of the law were largely mollified by the ruling of the Supreme Court to the effect that, although Congress had legislated against "every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint" of interstate or foreign commerce, it meant to prohibit only unreasonable restraints, and despite certain conspicuous and important exceptions this more liberal interpretation of the law has received general approval.

One reason for this approval has been the growing realization by professional students of economics and businessmen that competition sometimes costs more than it is worth. Nearly everyone can see this in the case of such businesses as those which provide us with gas, or water, or telephone service. These and others we have come to designate as "natural" monopolies. The basic technical reason why most of these industries are "natural" monopolies is that their fixed charges are such a large proportion of their total costs that it is wasteful to duplicate their equipment in pipes, for example, and saddle the community with two or more sets of such equipment and the charges thereon. But in the production of oil and coal we have been witnessing for some time a tremendous duplication of wells and shafts. And this duplication is worse than that of water or gas mains for the obvious reason that it is resulting in a stupendous waste of irreplaceable natural resources. An increasingly large number of oil operators realize this waste and wish to check it by agreement. Several states have enacted statutes designated to prevent wastage of gas and petroleum. Since the problem is an interstate one, it must be handled nationally to secure the best results, but one of the obstacles to a national solution is the Sherman anti-trust act.

NOW this is not the first time in recent years that we have been confronted with an emergency in some important field of trade or commerce in which our anti-trust policy at least contributed toward creating the emergency. In 1918, after four years of congressional discussion, we reversed that policy for the benefit of exporters by the Webb-Pomerene act. We have subsequently exempted associations of farmers, horticulturists, etc., from the pains and penalties of the Sherman act. Other exemptions have been made in favor of operators of steamship lines and of marine insurance companies.

With these deviations from the "simon-pure" competitive ideal of the Sherman act and the generally satisfactory results of them in mind, it seems high time that Congress should proceed to further modifications of that statute to prevent continued waste of such natural resources as coal and petroleum in which the competitive system is a demonstrated failure. In formulating such modifications it is essential to take precautions to avoid a return to the abuses of the oil trust prior to 1911. For this task we may confidently rely upon such a body as the Federal Trade Commission or an especially created petroleum commission.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 19.—Manhattan in that interlude following the evening homegoing rush becomes distinctly villagey. During summer months especially the gathering of shadows diffuses a charm. Along old Murray Hill there is the drowse of a residential street in a prairie town, the charm of trellised bowers.

Clerks in the all evening shops hang to awning ropes and gossip with passers-by. Stunty roadsters packed with hatless and flanneled youths and their girl friends roar by on way to the beaches. Crossing cops relax their vigil in the traffic desolation.

In the side street boarding houses cliff dwellers perch on stoops and in windows, reading papers and languidly puffing pipes. Freshly scrubbed youngsters rush about sidewalk games. Tuxedoed head waiters await expectantly in the doorways of cafes.

In Times Square musicians swarm to quick lunches for the six o'clock snack before setting off to their pits. Taxi drivers slump like spun out worms into grotesque positions along the curbs, gulping tabloid head-lines before the theater rush. The strident roar becomes a hum, like wind in the ash or surf on the shore.

Brightly carmined daughters of the dusk eddy in from cross streets to move slowly before shop windows with quick about glances. Chop houses filled with the well-barbered touts, sure thing boys and dice gamblers to await the tip off men for locations of the night's play.

Chorines gather between six and seven for their hasty bites. Throughout the entire Tenderloin there is an absence of the usual restraint. Instead of stiff nods there is hallo-ing. On the sidewalks there are often scufflings like those in front of the barber shop back home.

Twilight seems to humanize the whole island. Lovers are silhouetted on park walls. But when night eventually spreads its blackness it becomes brittle and aloof again. Under the glare of lights the business of living becomes something stern and unsentimental.

After performing a trifling service for a certain literary gentleman he responds with this epistolary enthusiasm: "Some day if you want a first class murder done, please do not hesitate to call on me. I do very excellent work, leave no clues, bury my dead, mop up the blood and furnish six benign pall bearers expertly trained to register great grief."

Chic Sale has turned down an offer of $25,000 to write another volume with the chalet de necessite as a theme. His first effort was written privately for the edification of close friends. It and another volume followed for public sale and the royalties coupled with endorsement checks have totaled more than a quarter million. But Chic has enough of the idea. He has retired to California to fish. The stage may not see him again.

They tell of a tea Chic attended recently. Among the hand kissing flutterers was one of those sleek-haired boys with a Byron face and a Capt. Kidd heart. He was pointed out to Chic as a notorious gigolo.
